Lawrence Gives Roosevelt Edge for Presidency but Sees Drift Toward Hoover

Some States Sure for Governor 3 Weeks Ago Now Doubtful

RESULT UNCERTAIN

Lists Minimum Requirements for Both Candidates in Race

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Three weeks ago Franklin Roosevelt had won this election by what seemed to be landslide proportions. Within the last three weeks there has been an unmistakable trend toward Hoover. It has made states doubtful that were reasonably sure for Roosevelt. It has made states sure for Hoover. It has made states doubtful that were reasonably sure for Roosevelt. It has made states sure for Hoover. It has made states doubtful that were reasonably sure for Roosevelt. It has made states sure for Hoover.

Fully 150 telegrams received in the last 24 hours from editors in all the important states indicate that even those who have been in the habit of observing presidential elections are somewhat puzzled in specific instances and are cautious about trusting their own judgment. All this may sound surprising in the face of the fact that the polls that have been consistently given Roosevelt have been running in nearly every state against the administration on account of the belief that President Hoover and the Republicans "brought bad times" or somehow should have found a way to cure them. But while it seems incredible that Hoover could possibly win all the states that are showing some inclination towards him, it would have to get all the "breaks" to achieve victory still the writer cannot ignore the fact that in both the east and west Hoover has been gaining ground.

Common Attitude

Elections run in tides. They are rarely spotty. If the president, for instance, is making gains in Nebraska, he should be gaining also in Utah or in South Dakota. If he is pushing forward in Illinois, his fortunes should be rising also in Indiana and Ohio. There is a sameness about the attitude of people in neighboring agricultural states which, barring some local difficulty or factional fight, shows the way the tide is running.

Iowa and Illinois were definitely in the Democratic column a few weeks ago. Today a number of editors who know those states well have telegraphed a belief that Hoover may carry them. The same change has occurred in Indiana and to a lesser degree in Ohio. One Democratic editor who for many weeks believed Roosevelt would carry Ohio by 500,000 now revises his estimate down to 200,000. But the sum total of information from that state rather leaves one in doubt, for pluralities are big in the Buckeye state and the recent reversal in the rural districts is of unknown proportions.

Minnesota has been doubtful but is leaning towards Hoover and he is there today making a speech that his managers think will clinch the state electoral vote.

California is close but Hoover has the edge in the opinion of some informants in both the northern and southern sections.

ACTRESS DIES IN HOLLYWOOD

BELLE BENNETT

Hollywood, Calif.—(P)—A nervous breakdown suffered two years ago led to the death last night of Belle Bennett, a comparatively young actress who gained fame as the portrayer of mother roles on the screen. She was 39 years old, but appeared much younger in real life.

Dr. Leon Tiber, who attended the actress, said death was caused by general carcinoma, a form of cancer. At her bedside when she died was her son, Theodore Macy. Her husband, Fred Windermere, film director, left the room shortly before death occurred.

Miss Bennett climbed to stardom in the films from a girlhood career under "the big top." She was born in Milada, Minn., the daughter of Billie Bennett, circus owner. She first appeared before the public at the age of 13 as a trapeze performer. Later, she became a member of a stock company, then went to Broadway where she played in productions of David Belasco.

Her greatest measure of success, however, came in motion pictures. Her most noted film role was that of leading character in "Stella Dallas," a memorable performance in the history of the films.

The "mother role" in Stella Dallas typed her for the remainder of her career. Thereafter she appeared in "Mother Machree," "Battle of the Sexes," "The Iron Mask," "The Queen of Burlesque," and "Reputation."

Miss Bennett was twice married. Her first husband was William Macy of LaCrosse, Wis.

Roosevelt, Smith Launch Attack on Campaign of Fear

Two Democratic Leaders Making Concerted Drive in New York

New York — (P)—The political team of "Frank" and "Al"—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith—reformed at the state convention a month ago, returned to New York city last night for a two-day presentation of their arguments for the election of a Democratic president and a state ticket.

The teamates began their metropolitan attack upon Republican candidates at the Brooklyn Academy of Music. Tonight they will appear at a party rally in Madison Square Garden.

Both Roosevelt and Smith criticized President Hoover and the Republican party for conducting a "campaign of fear."

"When I think of the many people I have seen in this campaign," said Roosevelt, "patient, steadfast, though bitterly hurt in the collapse of our economic life, I feel that to take advantage of their deprivation to spread among them the gospel of fear is about the most reprehensible act of a campaign that has yielded many examples of unscrupulous appeals for votes."

Then this campaign opened," Smith said, "word came from Washington that the president was too busy to make a campaign, and therefore he would make only two speeches. But the latest report is a speech a day with a hurried trip across the continent to the palatial

South Dakota Bank Robbed by 5 Men

Four Raiders at Beresford Take $6,000 While Fifth Waits in Auto

Beresford, S. D.—(P)—Five men robbed the First National Bank of Beresford shortly after it opened this morning. They obtained approximately $6,000.

Walking into the bank a few minutes after it opened for business this morning the robbers, unmasked and roughly dressed, forced four employees to the face downward on the floor while they gathered all available currency.

Four men made the actual raid while a fifth waited in a small sedan in the alley back of the bank. Leaving by the back door, the robbers drove down the main street of the town and disappeared southward on Highway 77.

Bank officials said that as near as they could estimate the bandits obtained $6,000, all in cash. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

HOLDUP IN ALABAMA

Columbiana, Ala.—(P)—A bandit who forced the bookkeeper to open the vault of the Bank of Columbiana this morning robbed it of between $12,000 and $15,000 officials said, and escaped.

FOOTBALL EXTRA!!

Hundreds of people who are bemoaning the fate which kept them away from football stadia this beautiful Saturday afternoon can find some consolation in receiving football news "hot off the gridiron" in this afternoon's Football Extra which will be on the streets at 6 o'clock. There will be the advantage, too, of reading about all the games this afternoon while football interest still is at a fever heat.

Play by play reports will be carried in the Extra edition on all the more important games and there will be detailed accounts of many others. Our own Lawrence college is playing at Beloit and the Football Extra will tell all about this game. Wisconsin is engaged in its annual homecoming struggle with Illinois as its opponent and this game too will be reported in detail in the Football Extra.

The Pink Sheet edition will be on the streets of Appleton, Menasha, Neenah and Kaukauna at 6 o'clock tonight.

Publishes Glassford's Statement in Bonus Row

Washington —(P)—William H. McGrath, president of the District of Columbia Police association, today issued a sworn statement quoting former Police Superintendent Pelham D. Glassford as saying with reference to the bonus marchers that he was "going to nurse the situation along and that at the proper time he would dump the whole matter into the lap of the administration."

Mr. McGrath said General Glassford made this remark to him "on or about the 14th day of June, 1932," and at the same time "informed me that there was going to be serious trouble after congress adjourned." The bonus riots occurred July 28.

Pavement Dance, Celebration Ends Annual Festival

Stores Remaining Open Until 9 O'clock This Evening

A street pavement dance and celebration tonight will climax the Fall Festival annual merchandising event that has been in progress since Thursday. The dance, for which the Meyer-Seeger Music company will provide music, will be held on Oneida-st in front of city hall. Al Nitz will furnish music over the public address system.

Stores will be open until 9 o'clock tonight, thus providing shoppers with several more hours in which to chase down the bargains that can be found in every nook and corner of every store. While an immense amount of merchandise has passed over the counters during the three-day festival, merchants are still prepared to meet most demands. Prior to the event shelves and warehouses were loaded with attractive merchandise, so, no matter how large the crowds, all reasonable demands could be met. All left-over merchandise will go back to regular prices on Monday, leaving only tonight for bargain hunting.

All the courtesies that have been extended to shoppers during the festival will continue through tonight. City parking restrictions can be forgotten, the shopping public will find comfort rooms established in the leading hotels, and despite weariness from three days of constant selling, shoppers will find salespeople eager to display merchandise and assist in selections.

Troopers Kill Maniac Slayer in New York

Highland Mill, N. Y.—(P)—State troopers who crawled through a subterranean passage, killed a maniac who had slain an employee of Jesus and Mary convent near here today and had barricaded himself in the basement with a rifle and ammunition.

Lieut. Haggerman, who led a detail of state police from the Monroe post, had not established the names of the dead men at noon.

The maniac was a former employee of the convent, and a former inmate of the State Insane asylum at Middletown.

About 7 o'clock this morning he returned to the convent to settle a grudge against a former fellow employee there. For four hours he terrorized inmates of the convent until Troopers H. J. Quinn and Brennan crawled through a tunnel and charged his hiding place. The maniac fired two shots at the troopers and Trooper Quinn killed him with a single shot at close range.

GROGER FOUND SLAIN

Chicago—(P)—Joseph Barone, 42, a grocer, and believed by police to have been a minor alcohol peddler, was found fatally shot in the rear of his home early today. Police conjectured he had been ambushed by rivals.

Hunger Marchers on Way Home Via Trains

London—(P)—The main body of the 2,000 "hunger marchers" who trekked hopefully into London 10 days ago, rode homeward today towards Scotland, Wales, and provincial England in comfortable railway coaches attached to regular trains.

The railways offered transportation at the low rate of one and one-third cents a mile and the National Unemployed Workers' organization, which sponsored the march on London, raised the funds. They got the money by public collections and from sympathetic organizations.

Three coaches were attached to one train at Paddington station bound for West England and Wales carrying the first detachment homeward.

Negro Convict Leader Tries to Kill Himself

St. Vincent de Paul, Que.—(P)—Chester Crossley, the big Negro who led yesterday's riot in the prison on the Island of Jesus, was in critical condition today at the prison hospital with stab wounds after a suicide attempt.

Authorities revealed today how the Negro had locked himself in the blazing tailor shop, fired by his own comrades, and climbed to the fourth floor of the building. As they played the hose lines on the flames firemen could see him in a cell up there.

If they had not trained a steady stream of water on him through a cell door on the top floor he might have burned to death. He tried to escape punishment by stabbing himself several times with a shoemaker's knife as guards went in to capture him.

High School Boys Cause Bomb Scare At State Capital

Madison—(P)—Three Wisconsin high school boys who had been reading about a new type of bomb in a mechanics magazine caused federal and county officials here no end of worry last night.

Some powder and caps were stolen last Tuesday from the Pannack quarry.

Thursday night there was a political meeting in the university gymnasium. After the meeting a woman, whose name was withheld, found a folded note on the floor. It read:

"Say Bill. Don't mention the intercourse I had with you about that gunpowder. It's in the paper tonight. Remember, 'mums,' the word."

The note was turned over to Sheriff Fred T. Finn. The sheriff feared trouble upon the occasion of President Hoover's visit here today. He got in touch with secret service men and police whose hurried investigation dispelled the mystery.

They located three high school boys who had stolen the powder. One of them was the author of the mysterious note and all they intended to do was to build one of those bombs they had read about in the magazine.

Insult Refused His Freedom by Court in Greece

Ruling Puts New Treaty With United States on Retroactive Basis

Athens, Greece—(P)—The Greek Court of Appeals this evening confirmed the arrest of Samuel J. Insull, former Chicago utilities operator, who is held here for extradition to the United States. The court's decision means that the extradition will be detained while extradition negotiations are proceeding.

The court held that there is no provision in the new Greco-American extradition treaty which expressly precludes its retroactive effect, and that therefore the treaty is applicable to this case.

The president of the court asked Mr. Insull to rise. He looked ill and his hands trembled as the verdict was read.

"Have you anything to say?" the judge asked. Mr. Insull shook his head.

The proceeding was over. The American was led out of the courtroom back to the room at police headquarters where he spent last night.

Mr. Insull looked tired despite the special privileges accorded him at police headquarters where he spent the night. He took no part in the proceedings, but followed with the closest attention the arguments of his attorney, though he understood not a word of the proceedings which were conducted in Greek. "In this case," said Cristos Ladass, representing Insull, "the court must take into consideration not only the time of Mr. Insull's entry into Greece but also the date of the offenses he is alleged to have committed." Those offenses, he said, appear to have taken place sometime in January of this year, "long before the extradition convention was signed and ratified."

The laws specifying cases subject to extradition, he insisted, "are essentially criminal laws and cannot be applied except as to the present and future."

Accuses Foe Of Evasions In Campaign

Charges Democrats With Avoiding Issues in His St. Louis Speech

DISCUSSES DRY LAW President Says States Should be Given Control of Prohibition

Abroad Presidential Special Enroute to St. Paul —(P)—President Hoover carried his final drive for reelection back into Illinois, toward Wisconsin and Minnesota today after bidding for Missouri's support with the assertion that the Democrats are conducting a "campaign of avoidance" including "evasions" on the prohibition issue.

On his way to California to vote, the president headed today for St. Paul where he makes a major campaign speech tonight at 9:30 central standard time after an address at Madison, Wis., and ten rear platform appearances along the route.

From St. Paul, he will dash across the continent to his home in Palo Alto in order to vote Election day. Stops enroute to the coast will include a halt in Nevada, probably at Elko for a final nation-wide radio appeal Election eve. The president will speak at Salt Lake City in the Mormon tabernacle.

Invasion Wisconsin today, the president enters a state in which some of the leading Republicans, of the Progressive wing, have declared for his opponent, Franklin D. Roosevelt. In Minnesota tonight he will find the Democrats drawing support from high figures in the Farmer-Labor party.

Program Cut Off

The chief executive spoke at St. Louis last night before a crowd that jammed the 11,500 capacity coliseum, after a strenuous day that started before breakfast and included a formal address at Springfield, Ill. Starting half an hour late because of his crowded program the president was unable to finish within the time reserved on the radio and was cut off the air to allow Roosevelt to speak.

Discussing prohibition for the first time since his speech of acceptance, the president repeated that prohibition should be changed to eliminate "evils" and that states should be given control of the problem with protection from wet states and provision against return of the saloon.

His proposal, he said "is the only practical common ground with adequate protection on which this whole question can reach solution."

Speaking of the Democrats, he said: "They know that their own Democratic stronghold in the south, if no other, will not accept the proposal for outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment with the consequent return of the saloon, and its resultant lack of protection to dry states."

As examples of what he called "the great constructive measures of the administration," Mr. Hoover told for the first time his story of the loan by the Reconstruction corporation to the Daves bank of Chicago, and his negotiation of the one year moratorium on war debts.

"The constant misrepresentation of this episode for political purposes by Democratic politicians is a slander upon men of their own party as well as a cruel injustice to General Daves," the president said with reference to the Daves bank loan.

Man Confesses Fatal Shooting At Lake Bolton

Exonerates Woman Who Accused Herself of Slaying Husband

Eagle River, Wis.—(P)—An elderly woman's fear that she would lose $1,700 in gold was advanced by Vilas-co authorities today as the "break" which prompted John Mousanet, 44, to confess he shot and killed her husband, Fred Friedenberg, 64, at their Lake Bolton cottage near Lac du Flambeau on Oct. 23.

Mousanet, pleading self-defense, was arraigned before Municipal Judge A. H. Reid at Wausau today for sentence.

In his confession to District Attorney Edmund Draeger, Mousanet reputed the confession of Friedenberg's wife, Amelia, who originally told authorities she fired two shots into her husband's body during a quarrel. He said she had threatened to kill herself if he admitted the crime.

Held in the Vilas-co jail with Mrs. Friedenberg as a material witness because he said he returned to the cottage shortly after the shooting, Mousanet changed his story late yesterday while the woman was directing authorities to a cache of $1,700 in gold at the Bolton lake cottage.

Authorities were skeptical of Mrs. Friedenberg's explanation of the slaying and had delayed her arraignment despite her insistence she fired a pistol bullet into her husband's head as he sat eating

2 Men Questioned In Alleged Plot

Negro Suspected of Trying to Derail President Hoover's Train

Beloit, Wis.—(P)—Police and railroad detectives today were questioning Henry Vance, 37, a Negro, arrested at 4 o'clock a. m. by railroad operatives who suspected him of planning to tamper with the tracks over which President Hoover's train was scheduled to pass.

The man was carrying a crowbar of a type used in pulling spikes from railway ties. He was picked up by Melvin Peterson, special agent of the road, who was patrolling the tracks in advance of the president's train.

Vance told police he was returning the bar to the home of a friend, Hayes White, 55, and chose to walk along the railroad right of way because he was afraid of dogs. He denied he was preparing to remove spikes from the rails. White, he said, had taken the crowbar to Vance's home in Beloit at 8 o'clock the night before.

White was arrested and denied ownership of the bar. He was held today for further questioning.

Police said that a section house about a mile from the point where Vance was arrested was broken into during the night and a crowbar and large wrench stolen.

Vance was arrested near Waverly Beach, a dance pavilion on the outskirts of Beloit, toward Janesville.

Major Drive For Election Ends Tonight

Both Chief Presidential Candidates Preparing For Final Speeches

Washington—(P)—The last major engagements of the 1932 presidential battle will be fought tonight at opposite ends of an approximately 1,400 mile front.

As the campaign strategy maps were marked today, President Hoover will save a parting shot for Election eve somewhere enroute to California to vote. Tonight at St. Paul, after an afternoon speech at Madison, Wis., he has his semi-final say.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, reunited with his old political ally, Alfred E. Smith, will carry the Democratic standard into Madison Square garden for the customary pre-election rally of state forces and a final national appeal for victory on Tuesday.

Roosevelt, too, will speak to the nation on Election eve from his home headquarters at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., but his last major address was scheduled for tonight.

For President Hoover it has meant a series of almost uninterrupted dashes into the midwest and up the Atlantic coast which had taken him today 8,500 miles for about ten "major" speeches. When he reaches his home in Palo Alto, Calif., to vote he will have covered over 10,000 miles in little more than a month.

Getting a much earlier start—Aug. 20 as against his Republican opponent's initial road speech on Oct. 4—Governor Roosevelt has made more than a score of "major" addresses and has covered about 14,000 miles to touch three-fourths of the 48 states.

Start of Campaign

A recapitulation of the tours of the major party candidates shows that the Democratic nominee opened his road campaign at Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 20, in which he urged federal regulation of security and commodity exchanges and more rigid supervision of national banks.

Mr. Hoover's first speech was not until Oct. 4 at Des Moines where he sponsored 12 points in aid of agriculture. In his acceptance speech he favored revision of the 18th amendment with saloons barred and federal protection against liquor invasion of dry states. Governor Roosevelt assailed this stand and praised the Democratic repeal plank in his second major speech at Seagriff, N. J., Aug. 27.

To show the strategy of the campaign, here are a few of the other big points touched by the nominees and the sections chosen for their espousal:

Roosevelt: Urged reduction in government expenditures and united front for "new deal," Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 3.

Hoover: Denied contracting for cheap Chinese labor in earlier career and outlined 12 principles of his administration on wages and employment, Cleveland, Oct. 15.

Roosevelt: Outlined six-point farm relief program, including tariff readjustment through international agreements, Topeka, Sept. 14.

Tariff Inquiry

Hoover: Said he had asked tariff commission to investigate all rates to see if adequate protection afforded against imports from nations with depreciated currencies, Charleston, Va., Oct. 29.

Roosevelt: Proposed seven-point railroad relief plan and said government should assist railroads to work out a national transportation policy, Salt Lake City, Sept. 17.

Hoover: Said slump in business was broken, but fees were retarding gains, Detroit, Oct. 22.

Roosevelt: Proposed eight-point plan for regulation and control of public utilities engaged in the power business, Portland, Ore., Sept. 21.

Hoover: Claimed Roosevelt changed position on the tariff, Indianapolis, Oct. 23.

Roosevelt: Assailed Republican leadership as one which had failed to cope with national problems, San Francisco, Sept. 23.

Hoover: Criticized Roosevelt's statement on the supreme court, Baltimore, Oct. 31.

Roosevelt: Urged tariff cut as low as prosperity of industry would permit, Sioux City, Sept. 29.

Hoover: Says "disaster" would result from lowered tariff, New York, Oct. 31.

Urges Federal Aid

Roosevelt: Urged federal aid for unemployed when state and local relief fails, Albany, Oct. 13.

With the two candidates making their final appeals tonight at points so remote from each other, it becomes clear to political observers that the original conception each had of the vital electoral sector for him has been changed due to the development of the campaign itself.

Originally, President Hoover expected to make no more than three big speeches, the last one in New York city. Instead, he is making his final appeal in the heart of the northwest to which Governor Roosevelt addressed his original plea for support for the Democratic nomination.

Governor Roosevelt and his advisers originally regarded the midwest, northwest and far west as the most fertile field to plow for electoral votes by the candidate himself, with the east a dubious region. As events have transpired, the final Roosevelt drive has been on the eastern seaboard with its concluding action in New York city.

Building Permits

One building permit was issued Friday by John N. Weiland, building inspector. It was granted to Fred Kopschke, 1015 E. Pacific st., porch and stairway, cost $25.

A crowd estimated at 30,000, engulfed President Hoover's train and heard him speak during his ten minute stop at Gary, Ind. The President and Mrs. Hoover are shown above, indicated by arrows, making their way through the crowd to Gateway park, Gary. NEA—Chicago Bureau.

breakfast and then fired another shot as she staggered through the doorway of their one room cottage.

Changes His Story

Moussanet, who had lived with the Friedbergs since they moved to the cottage last May 3 from West Allies, originally said he was away hunting and returned to the cottage after the shooting.

In his investigation of the slaying, however, Sheriff Tom McGreggor discovered a bullet in the cottage wall about the height of a man's head. He also learned that Friedenberg had objected to Moussanet staying at the cottage. The couple had quarreled frequently over Moussanet.

The "break" came when the woman asked to be taken to the cottage to get some money she had hidden there. She had been informed her stepson, Adolph, had made an unsuccessful search for the cache.

Accompanied by Sheriff McGreggor and her attorney, F. W. Carter, Mrs. Friedenberg went to the cottage and dug up a piece of iron pipe containing $1,500 in gold and a tin can holding $400.

Tells of Struggle

Meanwhile, Moussanet learned the woman had been taken away and became uneasy. Believing that she had been taken into court for sentence, he told the district attorney she was innocent. He then told of unexpectedly returning to the cottage and finding Friedenberg and his wife struggling for possession of a knife.

Moussanet said he shot when Friedenberg advanced toward him, the bullet striking the latter in the jaw. He followed as Friedenberg, moaning in pain, walked outside and shot him again in the head. It was the first bullet, he explained, that had lodged in the wall.

When Mrs. Friedenberg and the sheriff's party returned from the cottage, the woman pleaded with Moussanet to retract his confession. He refused. Mrs. Friedenberg then repudiated her confession, Sheriff McGreggor said.

Sidelights on Politics

Hartford, Conn. — Gov. Wilbur L. Cross, the only Democratic state official, tells the story of a Misourian who was consoling him because he was surrounded by Republicans. "Whenever I think of you," the Misourian said, "I think of a celluloid rabbit being chased through hedges by an asbestos bound."

Baltimore, Md. — Marylanders have found that President Hoover was right on a point of local history. Recently he remarked his "great-grandfather lived for the span of a generation at Union Bridge in Frederick-co in this state." Many Marylanders said Union Bridge is in Carroll-co. But it was found that Carroll-co was formed from parts of Frederick and Baltimore-cos in 1836 in honor of Charles Carroll of Carrollton.

Hyde Park, N. Y. — "Up the road a piece from Krum Elbow, Governor Roosevelt's estate, is a quaint building with arched windows and a cupola. It is the town hall. During the two decades of its existence he has voted there, and there he will vote next Tuesday."

New York—Chinese supporters of Surrogate John P. O'Brien, Democratic candidate for mayor, are calling him Ole Bo Lon. Willie Lee, toastmaster at a recent dinner to Mr. O'Brien, translated it as meaning "saint chrysanthemum."

Utility Finance Proposal Support Urged by Jansen

Head of Wisconsin Municipalities League Asks Voters to Pass Amendment

A plea to voters of Outagamie-co to support the proposed constitutional amendment which would permit municipal utilities to finance extensions and improvements on the same basis as private utilities, was made in a statement this morning by Anton Jansen, Little Chute, president of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities. Mr. Jansen attacks efforts of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce to defeat the proposed measure, which will be voted on at the election next Tuesday.

Mr. Jansen's statement follows: "Since last minute roorbacks and other political tricks are naturally regarded with suspicion by voters—the belated attempts such as that of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce to scare citizens into voting against the constitutional amendment which would permit municipalities to finance extensions and improvements upon the same basis as private utilities will not be taken very seriously."

Hits Prejudice

"Those responsible for this last minute attack are obviously so prejudiced that they have not studied the amendment. They charge that it would permit ambitious city councils to create burdensome public debts for the purchase or construction of municipally owned public utilities. They are ignorant of the fact that under the Nye act passed almost unanimously during Gov. Philipp's administration in 1919 municipalities already can issue mortgage bonds at the time of purchasing or constructing a public utility. This amendment is necessary to enable municipal water and light utilities already in existence to finance improvements upon the same basis as private utilities, namely, by issuing mortgage securities which will not be a liability upon the taxpayers."

"This is generally recognized as a sound method of financing. Municipalities in neighboring states have long possessed this power. Such mortgage bonds have been approved by national authorities in municipal finance such as the National Municipal League, the Philadelphia Bureau of Municipal Research, the Detroit Bureau of Governmental Research, etc."

Outlines Facts

"If those like the Appleton Chamber of Commerce are really sincere in protecting the interests of small business men and citizens, they should concern themselves with some of the following facts: "(1) That through the failure of the Insull, Foshay and other public utility holding companies, several billions of dollars have been lost by investors. Many of these pyramids have raised vast sums of money in Wisconsin by selling securities which are now almost worthless. "(2) In order to prevent the operating companies in Wisconsin from draining off funds to bolster up these parent holding companies and endanger the interests of public utility consumers in this state, the Public Service commission has issued orders to prevent such activities. "(3) A study completed this week by the Public Service commission discloses that the municipally owned electric utilities in Wisconsin are supplying residential service, for example, at rates materially lower than those charged by private utilities. In addition, the profits of these municipal utilities are used to lower tax rates in the separate communities. "(4) Municipal utilities in Wisconsin pursue the policy of retiring utility debts out of profits so that the indebtedness outstanding on municipal utilities in the state is negligible, in contrast to the policy of private utilities. "It will be apparent to anyone that citizens must pay the debt charges on mortgage bonds issued by a private utility since these are considered as a legitimate cost of operation. Since it is good business for private utilities to issue such securities, why should municipal water and electric utilities be hamstrung by denying them these rights? "This amendment, which originated during the administration of Gov. Kohler, passed the 1929 legislature overwhelmingly. Final ratification in the 1931 legislature was unanimous in the assembly, and in the senate where there were only two negative votes not a single person appeared in opposition thereto. The amendment is endorsed in the political platforms upon which Mr. Kohler and Mr. Schmedeman are campaigning and therefore is non-political. It is endorsed by impartial organizations such as the City Club of Milwaukee and the Wisconsin section of the American Waterworks association. Leading newspapers such as the Milwaukee Journal, the Oshkosh Northwestern, and the Stevens Point Journal have editorially supported it."

Rainfall Measured 2.31 During October, Report

Weather conditions during October, compared to the same period of 1931, were about the same with the exception of rainfall, which was considerably heavier this year.

The total rainfall last month was 2.31 inches, the precipitation being the heaviest in several months. The heaviest rainfall was recorded on Oct. 25 when .75 of an inch fell. On Oct. 8 and 9 it rained continuously but the rainfall totalled only .71 inches. On Oct. 2 and 3 it aggregated .09 inches; Oct. 10 it was .13 inches; Oct. 22, one-half inch; Oct. 28, .03 inches, and on Oct. 31 it totalled .10 inches.

While the average temperatures were about the same, the highest and lowest extremes were recorded in October of this year compared to the same figures compiled for October 1931. George Johnson, Menasha local logger and official weather venter for this district, says. Rainfall averages are computed by Wilmer D. Schlafel of this city.

The high temperature for last month was recorded on Oct. 1 when the mercury rose to 80 degrees above zero. The highest temperature recorded in the same month in 1931 was 78 degrees above on Oct. 3.

On Oct. 30 of this year the mercury dropped seven degrees below the freezing point or 25 degrees above, for the lowest temperature of the month, Mr. Johnson says. In the same month last year the mercury never reached the freezing point, the lowest being 33 degrees above on Oct. 12.

Needed "Plainer Talk"

"President Hoover wouldn't have to make 14 speeches a day if in the beginning of his term he talked a little plainer to the American people."

Roosevelt said he had pointed out and driven home "by straight argument, based on undisputed facts, that the administration of government under the present leadership in Washington has been distinguished by destruction, delay, deceit and despair."

Answering Republican arguments, which he described as "misrepresentations" regarding the Democratic position on "sound" money, the presidential nominee said:

"The Democratic platform specifically declares 'we advocate a sound currency to be preserved at all hazards.' That is plain English. In discussing this platform on June 30, I said: 'Sound money is an international necessity; not a domestic consideration for one nation alone.' The president is seeing visions of rubber dollars. This is only part of his campaign fear."

"Misquoted Himself"

And, asserted Roosevelt, "the president not only misrepresented me, but misquoted himself."

Continuing a reference to Mr. Hoover's speech in New York, Roosevelt said "the president stated:

"In my acceptance speech four years ago, I stated that in America today we are near a final triumph over poverty than in any land. The poorhouse has vanished from among us; we have not reached the goal, but given a chance to go forward we shall with the help of God, be in sight of the day when poverty will be banished from this nation."

Roosevelt said the Republican campaign book of 1928 and a book entitled "The New Day," containing the campaign speeches of President Hoover read "we have not yet reached the goal but given a chance to go forward with the policies of the last eight years, and we shall soon with the help of God be in sight of the day when poverty will be banished from this nation."

Roosevelt argued Hoover deleted the words, "yet" and "soon" and the phrase "with the policies of the last eight years" which he contended were used "to indicate that the arrival of the millennium would be brought about only by a continuation of the policies of the Republican administrations preceding him."

Roosevelt will go to his Hyde Park home on Sunday and will return to New York City on Tuesday, after he votes to receive returns from the election at national Democratic headquarters.

"Snow Goggles" Reveal Ancient Eskimo People

$5,000 Is Willed To Appleton Woman

Washington—(P)—A prehistoric pair of "snow goggles" dug from a frozen grave at the northernmost point under the American flag, Friday added a whole new chapter to history of the human race in the Arctic.

The goggles, of ivory with narrow eye-slits to shut out glare of the sun on ice and snow, date back several thousand years to the long-lost "ivory civilization" of the Eskimos. The Smithsonian Institution in announcing the find by James A. Ford at Point Barrow, Alaska, said discovery of the goggles and other ancient relics "literally turns upside down" old ideas of man's past in the far north.

The institution said Eskimos far more civilized than any known in modern times made the goggles, which are as useful as when they were carved by prehistoric "tool-makers" on the shores of the Arctic sea.

The discovery furnishes a long-sought connection between the old "ivory civilization" and more recent Eskimos, showing that these people developed in reserve fashion from most other races. They came to America from Asia with a high degree of culture, but instead of continuing to improve they have gone down hill ever since.

The "ivory civilization" flourished in ancient times around Bering sea, and remains of it first were found five years ago.

"It represents not only the highest cultural stage ever reached in the far north," said the Smithsonian, "but one of the highest stages attained in the New World before the coming of the white man. It was one of the most advanced of all primitive cultures."

Why the "ivory civilization" degenerated scientists do not know, but the institution said Ford's discoveries at Point Barrow help show the decline was continuous. Old weapons and relics in the graves reveal a direct link between the ivory civilization and later times. They were said to indicate that "what scientists call the 'true culture' of the eastern Eskimos was not ancient as supposed."

Ford spent the entire winter of 1931-32 at Point Barrow so that he would be ready to start digging as soon as the ground began to thaw in June. The arctic ice does not permit ships to reach there until later in the summer, and navigation stays open a few weeks. Ancient Eskimo village ruins are plentiful there because fishing and whaling always have been good.

750 Present at Three Rallies Of Democrats

End Campaign With Meetings at Little Chute, Seymour, Kimberly

With three political rallies last night, attended by 750 persons, the Outagamie County Democratic committee today was content to await the outcome of the election next Tuesday.

Rallies last night were held at Seymour, where there were 325 people in attendance; at Little Chute, where there were 275 present; and at Kimberly where 150 people heard the speakers.

Stephen D. Balliet, chairman of the county Democrats, and other Democratic leaders today predicted that Franklin D. Roosevelt and the complete slate of county and state candidates would receive majorities in the county. The same prediction was expressed by Mr. Balliet at the three meetings last night.

James Hughes, DePere, Democratic candidate for congress from the eighth district, was the speaker at all three meetings. S. Dwyer, Green Bay, attorney, talked at Little Chute and Kimberly. Harry F. McAndrews Kaukauna, Democratic candidate for district attorney, also spoke at the three meetings and all the Democratic candidates for county offices were present and were introduced. These include: Martin Verhagen for sheriff; Peter N. Diny for clerk of courts; John Burke for register of deeds; John Adrians for county treasurer; Robert M. Connelly, for county surveyor; Dr. F. N. Felton, for coroner; and John E. O'Connor, for the state senate.

The rally at Seymour was the biggest Democratic meeting of its kind in more than a decade, the Democratic leaders there said. They also claimed it was the biggest attendance at a political rally of any nature during this campaign. Grover Falk, Democratic precinct committeeman from Seymour, presided at the session. The meeting at Kimberly was sponsored by the Kimberly Roosevelt-Garner club and George Sauter, president, presided.

Permit Him to Continue Constructive Program, He Declares

"Keep Herbert Hoover in the White House so he can continue the sound constructive work he has started," Henry Connor, Chippewa Falls, told Lawrence college students at the Friday convocation in Lawrence Memorial chapel. His talk was the last of a series given this week by students on the presidential candidates. The speaker brought forth both applause and boos as he compared the records of the Republican and Democratic parties.

He stated that the Socialistic candidate represented a party that stood for a platform similar to that in Russia. He said that many years would pass before the American public would discard the sound capitalistic system which he now has. Connor discussed at length the records of the Democratic and Republican parties.

Hoover is making a concentrated drive against the depression, but Roosevelt, who has been unable to take care of the affairs in his own state of New York, wants to take over a job that is 48 times as large," Connor said.

Hoover was at the head of a committee that laid the foundation of a fund for relief during times of stress back in 1922. Roosevelt now states that the creation of such a fund is a good idea.

"The Republican party stands for a tariff that will protect American industry, American products and the American worker.

"Democrats are opposed to a tariff, yet the inconsistent Democratic

Vice President Curtis: "After traveling from the Atlantic to the Pacific through 24 states of the Union and over 16,000 miles, I am surer of election now than I was four years ago tonight."

John J. Raskob: "If ever any one man was directly responsible for the delusion of a whole people it was Herbert Hoover."

Secretary Ogden L. Mills: "From beginning to end of the campaign, the Democratic candidate has failed to deal with the greatest problem in American life today, that is, recovery from the depression."

Alfred E. Smith: "It has been a campaign of fear, of threat, of intimidation. . . . And the reason why they cannot appeal upon the record is that the record shows a rather dismal failure."

Norman Thomas: "Contrary to false reports, we Socialists believe absolutely in the equality of races—legal, economic, political, social."

THE ELECTION

In a few more days the national political campaign which has been a disturbing — in some instances an agonizing—factor in business will be over, the votes will have been cast and counted, and business will settle down to adjust itself to the result, no matter what it may be. Business has been doing that ever since the nation was born and will continue to do it as long as the nation endures. And in doing that business has found, and will continue to find, that in the final analysis the political party result of a national election is of far less consequence to business than is pictured as a probability during the campaign by party spellbinders; that the result, whether or not politically satisfactory, imposes no conditions to which business cannot adapt itself.

I believe the American people are too great, too strong and too intelligent to stand idly by waiting for some unseen or unknown power to work out their individual problems and carry their individual responsibilities. I believe with the uncertainty of the election out of the way that normal reasoning and normal necessities will cause the great American people to get behind and help push the wheel of prosperity which has already taken its decided forward movement. The sooner we start the sooner we win. Let's get started now.

State Starts Suit Against N. Y. Embargo

Injunction Proceedings Be- gun in Federal Courts— Ban Costs $4,500 Daily

Forced to its last resort because of the unwillingness of New York state authorities to lower the recent embargo against all cattle not certified free from contagious abortion, the state of Wisconsin yesterday, through the department of agriculture and markets, began injunction proceedings in the federal courts in New York. A wire ordering the start of legal proceedings was sent to a legal firm at Albany, N. Y., yesterday.

R. M. Orchard, assistant attorney general, assigned to the department, arrived back in Madison Thursday night after spending a week with New York authorities in an effort to lower the embargo.

In a report to the department this morning he disclosed that New York officials asked for a delay until February at which time they hoped to be in a position to again accept shipments of cattle from other states not certified abortion free. This decision was wholly unsatisfactory to officials here, and it was decided to file an injunction at once.

Cost Wisconsin $114,000.

New York officials have asked for a delay until February in order to consult their various farm organizations. Commissioner Charles L. Hill said today, "and inasmuch as they have already delayed the case three weeks, further delay would compel buyers of Wisconsin cattle to make purchases inside the state of New York and tend to permanently divert buyers from Wisconsin."

"Only 47 cattle were shipped from Wisconsin to New York during October as compared to shipments of 1955 cattle during the month of September. At $60 per head, the New York ruling has already cost Wisconsin approximately $114,000."

Hill Optimistic

Hill further pointed out that the average loss per day to Wisconsin shippers would approximate $4,500, so long as the embargo remained effective. He was optimistic in that the injunction would shortly open this market to Wisconsin shippers.

A meeting of shippers and breeders will be held in the capitol Saturday at 8 a. m. to make financial arrangements for the injunction proceedings. Milton H. Button, Madison, secretary of the Holstein Breeders' association is chairman of the committee.

The carload of cattle assigned by Mintz and Mintz, Appleton, to test the embargo arrived back home Friday. They were placed in quarantine when they reached New York about three weeks ago.

Hitler Papers are Assailed in Reich

Von Papen Forces Them To Retract Charges Against Government

Berlin.—Chancellor von Papen's vigorous attack on Adolf Hitler in a campaign address last night closing the Reichstag election campaign was followed this morning by a government order compelling Hitler newspapers to retract certain charges against the government's activities.

The Berlin Angriff and the Munich Voelkischer Beobachter were required to deny assertions that the chancellor plans a military alliance with England and that an economic program was inspired by Jacob Goldschmidt, a banker.

These aggressive tactics against the Nazis in the last hours of the campaign are regarded by political observers as an indication that the government regards the real issue of this election as a clear choice between Hitler and Von Papen.

The Nazis, too, have become threatening. Last night at Hamburg Gregor Strasser, Hitler's right hand man, indicated that the party may deviate from its basic policy of doing nothing extra legal in its bid for the governing power.

"I warn the government," he said, "that we are 100 per cent loyal now, but if the government continues to violate the constitution, should it win tomorrow's election, then a time will come when we will sit down to deliberate earnestly about changing our tactics."

vel" came from individuals in the through.

Introduced By Kohler

The president was driven through flag-draped, crowd-lined streets past the state capitol to the field-house, almost three miles from the station. A 21-gun presidential salute was fired on the university campus as the president passed. The presidential couple was greeted by an organized college cheer that reverberated through the big field-house as they entered. A white clad cheer leader led the rally. Walter J. Kohler, Republican candidate for governor, introduced the president, praising his "leadership."

"He has strengthened our fundamental institutions" and thus brought this country to a point where a sound recovery is definitely under way," Kohler said.

"Bowing in acknowledgment of the applause that greeted his introduction," the president began his speech with a statement that he valued the "refreshment" that came from college institutions.

"At the outset," the president said, he would rather discuss not so much campaign issues as "the fundamental principles for which America stands."

The microphones were so far away from the president that his words could not be heard.

After his brief opening remarks the chief executive read a prepared address from a manuscript placed in front of him on a high stand.

He praised the American system of education, by which, he said, the child from the humblest farm may receive the highest education available in the land.

"Our fundamental purpose is to strengthen national ideals and national purpose," the president said. "Lawlessness and crime have undoubtedly increased in our country," he declared. "Some ascribe it to prohibition, some to other causes."

The whole American judicial system should not be torn down, he said, simply because some communities do not assume their proper share of responsibility.

The president said he could discuss this question better in Wisconsin than any other state "because you have assumed your responsibilities."

"The governor of New York might have made a greater contribution to the suppression of crime," the president said, referring to gang activities.

Turning to the tariff Mr. Hoover asserted that if it were not for the tariff walls around the United States not only the small businessmen of Wisconsin but its farmers as well would be in a more serious state.

Welcomed at Beloit

Beloit gave the president a tumultuous welcome when the presidential special made its first stop in Wisconsin. The weather was mild and clear and Beloit streets were ablaze with the national colors.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Kohler and Herbert Kohler were among the first to board the train, and Chauncey Yockey, Milwaukee; John E. Fitzgibbon, Hoover-Curtis manager in the state; John B. Chapple, Republican senatorial candidate; George W. Blanchard, Edger-ton, First district congressional candidate; Mrs. Harry E. Thomas, Republican national committeewoman; and Magnus Swenson of Madison also boarded the train.

President Hoover, on the rear platform bowed, smiled and waved to the Beloit crowd, which overflowed the station platform into nearby streets. It was homecoming day for Beloit college alumni and students. The entire student body, headed by the college band, was at the station.

The reception at Janesville a little later was equally enthusiastic.

Four Persons Killed In Clashes at Berlin

Berlin.—Clashes between police and transport strike sympathizers had resulted in four deaths today as Berlin's residents continued to tramp to work for the third day in succession.

Efforts to start a skeleton early morning service on the main bus street car, subway, and elevated lines were successfully countered by strike sympathizers.

Despite police protection, cement was poured into switches and electric wires were cut in strategic spots, although there were few street battles during the night. After a check-up yesterday's clashes, authorities announced four strikers had been slain in brushes against police.

Three thousand of the 15,000 men who responded to an outlaw strike call returned to work yesterday, but strikers hampered service extensively by pelting cars and busses with rocks. Most of the busses so attacked were badly damaged, eight of them being wrecked within an hour.

its assets sound but not immediately saleable for cash.

The inquiry showed, he said, that of the 122,000 depositors, 105,000 were savings depositors and that their average savings were only $140 cash. Drawing a picture of intertwined banking and commerce, the president said 755 country banks had commercial deposits in the Dawes institution and that these banks had 6,500,000 depositors including 21,000 other banks with 20,000,000 depositors. The Reconstruction corporation loans, he said, ended the panic.

"Dawes, the president said, "knew and appreciated the use that would be made in this campaign of such calamity," and said he would not ask for assistance Mr. Hoover said the action was finally taken on the insistence of the two Democratic members of the Reconstruction board and the leading Democratic banker of Chicago who was then mentioned as a candidate for the presidency" and others.

Mr. Hoover said that the R. F. C. had intervened to save banks in 5,000 towns of 25,000 population or less. He added it is not enough to sign upon the taxpayer, but it is the salvation of millions of jobs to men and women."

After telling of the historic negotiations which led up to the moratorium proposal, the president said:

"I know that the proposal of the moratorium diverted the entire current of thought and changed the history of what otherwise would have been a tragedy to the whole of civilization."

"Campaign of Avoidances"

At the very outset of his address, the president said the Democratic campaign is "not a campaign of issues; it is a campaign of avoidances."

"From the congressional elections in 1930 down to the present moment the strategy of the Democratic party," he said, "has been an effort to implant in the unthinking mind through deliberate misrepresentation the colossal falsehood that the Republican party is responsible for this world-wide catastrophe."

"The candidates have sought constantly to distort the facts as to the depression; they have sought to minimize the measures by which the administration saved the United States from a generation of chaos."

"Turning to the tariff, the president said he had established the complete absurdity of Gov. Roosevelt's argument and that as a result the Democratic candidate had uttered confused changes and contradictory statements."

Mr. Hoover said that although Roosevelt said he would "leave no doubt or ambiguity as to where he stands on any question of moment now before the country 'the people of the country are still unable to find the method by which he will execute his six point program from farm relief."

"It is one of the great mysteries of this campaign," the president added. The chief executive then listed what he called other "evasions" by the Democratic candidate, including:

"What he proposes to do in respect to the soldiers' bonus."

"Whether he repudiates the Democratic proposals for $350,000,000 additional expenditures in the last session of congress."

"Whether, as he proposes to negotiate reciprocal tariffs, he will omit the agricultural commodities from these agreements."

"Whether he will support or repudiate Messrs. Wheeler, Norris, Huey Long, W. R. Hearst and others in their long continued efforts to put government in large business undertakings."

"Whether he has accepted the proposal of his supporter, William R. Hearst, for a $5,000,000,000 bond issue."

what Minnesota Republican leaders expect to be the largest political gathering in the state's history.

A torchlight parade from the Union station to a downtown hotel will escort the President and Mr. Hoover, heralded by three bands, through the city's downtown section.

Claude H. Mackenzie, Republican national committeeman, said the committee, in charge of arrangements had requests for more than 100,000 tickets from residents of four nearby states and Minnesota, desiring to hear the chief executive when he speaks at 9:30 p. m., at the St. Paul Municipal auditorium.

The auditorium proper will seat but 15,000 and accommodations for 8,000 more have been made in a small hall in the building. The president's speech will be carried to them and to the crowd outside in Rice park nearby by amplifiers.

An escort committee of 50, headed by former Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, will go to Hudson, Wis., where the presidential party will cross into Minnesota, to ride the rest of the way to St. Paul with Mr. Hoover.

At the Union station here, he will be greeted by a welcoming committee of 150 men and women high in Republican circles in Minnesota. The president's arrival has been scheduled for 8 p. m.

Rommel Vetoes Wood Contract

Claims Council Failed to Abide by Terms in Ad- vertisement for Bids

Mayor N. G. Remmel of Menasha today vetoed the council action of last Tuesday awarding a contract to Menasha Building and Supply Co. for furnishing the city with 100 or more cords of wood, on the grounds that the common council failed to comply with the terms in the advertisement for competitive bids.

The mayor's action followed the complaint of George Gibson, Neenah, who submitted a low bid on solid maple. The contract was awarded to the Menasha firm for low bid on mixed maple and birch wood in four-foot lengths at $7 per cord, to unload the wood at 50 cents a cord, to deliver it at 50 cents a cord, and to provide storage space free of charge. The wood will be used largely for distribution as fuel to needy families.

Protesting against the council's action last Tuesday evening, Gibson contended that the advertisement for bids provided for solid maple wood and that the council had acted to purchase wood that was part birch.

Kohler, Chapple Outline Plans at Milwaukee Rally

Former Says Democrats Trying to Distract Voters From Real Issue

(By the Associated Press)

Presenting a united plea for support of the state and national Republican candidates, former Gov. Walter J. Kohler, Republican gubernatorial nominee, and John B. Chapple, Republican nominee for United States senator, outlined at a party rally in Milwaukee last night the programs they would sponsor in governing the state and nation.

While Chapple devoted the major part of his talk to a critical analysis of Democratic strategy in the campaign, Mr. Kohler likewise charged that the Democratic state campaign "has consisted of a series of pitiful efforts to draw the attention of voters away from the real issues."

Pledges made in the Republican platform and his own record in public life and industry were cited by Mr. Kohler as sufficient proof of the kind of business administration he would render. Chapple listed his stand on 16 national issues, proposing, in part, aid for the farmer and the unemployed, tariff protection, modification of the Volstead act, protection of people's savings and insurance policies, adequate national defense, government economy, prompt completion of the St. Lawrence waterway, and development of honest social, economic, moral and religious values.

Hopeful For Business

Mr. Kohler spoke first and sounded an optimistic note, in predicting that Wisconsin is going to be one of the first states to get out of the difficulties caused by the economic depression. He suggested greater consumption of state products such as milk and cheese renewal of efforts to bring tourists into the state, and stimulation of industrial activity as means of returning to better times.

"For years there has been preached in this state a hymn of hate and there is no need for it," he said, "urging that all political factions forget politics in state government and cooperate to work out a plain, simple tax program that will encourage industry."

The Democratic platform was denounced by Mr. Kohler as wholly inadequate to stand on such vital issues as relief of unemployment, taxation, or budgeting of government mental expense.

"Bankrupt of any program that answers the needs of these troubled times," he said, "their campaign has consisted of a series of pitiful efforts to draw the attention of the voters away from the real issues."

"When they go to such fantastic lengths as to devote speeches to the accusation that a long time ago at a large banquet I happened to be seated a few places away from a man who several years later became involved in a national scandal, and whose reprehensible activities I have roundly denounced, you can see how desperate the opposition has become."

"Serious Work" Ahead

"As for myself," he said, "I propose to keep right on discussing the serious work that must be done in the next two years if conditions in Wisconsin are to be improved."

Chapple charged his opponent, F. Ryan Duffy, has "convicted himself of dishonesty" in view of the fact that Duffy criticized Senator John Blaine during the primary campaign and "is now consorting and conniving with Blaine."

"I have fought and shall continue to fight to make clear the great issues before the American people, and I shall do this with all my energy," he said. "This issue is greater than any man, greater than any candidate, for the future of our nation and our families is bound up in whether or not we recognize and check the forces of destruction in our nation before America crumbles under the strain that has broken and crippled nations in Europe, South America and Asia."

"All the death threats and threats of arrest which I have received during these months of campaigning have not stopped me and they will not stop me in the future."

Chapple cited as an example of the "unprincipled tactics of the opposition" the fact that Duffy was introduced at one of his meetings

Commends J. C. C. For Vote Program

Mayor Asks Appleton to Help Swell Total by Going to Polls

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., has commended the Appleton junior chamber of commerce and the national chamber for their efforts in getting out voters for Tuesday's general election. The national chamber is attempting to get out 50,000,000 voters and Appleton chamber has been carrying out a program that started a week ago.

The Appleton organization sponsored several radio talks during the past week and the distribution of cards in down town districts. Saturday-day boy scouts distributed hand bills to all homes in the city.

The program was adopted by the junior chamber as its major participation in the George Washington bicentennial celebration.

"I highly commend the Appleton junior chamber of commerce for this worthy and patriotic program," Mr. Goodland said. "Every eligible voter in the city of Appleton to go to the polls and vote on Tuesday, Nov. 8, so that our city of Appleton will show the largest number of ballots ever cast in an election," the mayor said.

Junior chamber members Monday will paint signs on chief street intersections reading "Vote as you please—but vote."

Cloudy, Warmer Weather Forecast for Weekend

Unsettled weather with increasing cloudiness and a rise in temperature is the weatherman's offering for Appleton and vicinity for the weekend. Probable showers have been forecast for the west and northern parts of the state.

Ideal weather prevailed over the weekend. This part of the state Saturday morning and moderate temperatures were recorded. Winds are shifting in the west and southwest. At 6 o'clock Saturday morning the mercury registered 44 degrees above and at noon it registered 50 degrees.

CALL MEETING TODAY

The police and license committee is to meet at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon to consider bids on a squad car for the police department. The bids were referred to the committee by the common council Wednesday evening.

as an ex-service man, while an effort was made to belittle Chapple's own service record. Another such example, he said, was the attempt to represent Chapple's successful fight against gear-law at Madison.

"When the jobs of north Wisconsin workers were threatened and again when forest fires were sweeping north Wisconsin, and men burned to death in my own country, I fought to present facts to the legislature," he said. "It was a hard fight and more than one attempt was made to shut me up. But I was fighting for the best interests of the people of north Wisconsin and I kept on until I won that fight."

Chapple said he had assumed his opponent was a man of principle but that "in the few short weeks of his campaign he has made intolerable compromises, and has thrown his principles overboard."

Call Health Officers to Meeting Here

Officials From Three Counties to Convene Next Thursday

Health officers of Outagamie, Waupaca, and Winnebago counties will gather at Wilson Junior high school Thursday for a general discussion of health problems. About 130 health officers from the three counties and a large number of other persons interested in health problems are expected to attend.

The meeting has been called by Dr. V. A. Gudex, state health officer. Formerly the state health board conducted state meetings for health officers, but this year the smaller group meeting plan is being used.

Speakers at the meeting will be Dr. Gudex, Dr. G. W. Henika, assistant state health officer, and some other member of the state board of health. Mayor John Goodland will give the address of welcome at 10 o'clock.

The addresses at the morning session will be "The Local Health Officer, His Responsibility, The Public's Interest in Health Work, and Work of a Deputy State Health Officer." In the afternoon Progress of Public Health and Communicable Disease Control and Sanitation, and Nuisances will be discussed.

State law provides that the expenses of delegates be paid by the municipality from which they come.

Explains Way to Poultry Profits

Stresses Care in Housing Of Pullets During Fall Season

Poultry profits this winter, a goal toward which all Outagamie county poultrymen are anxiously looking, will depend much upon the housing and care of the pullets during this fall, according to Gus Sell, county agent.

By this time, all pullets should be permanently housed for the winter, suggests the poultry department at the College of Agriculture. If they are not permanently housed, they should be moved from the brooder house to the laying house and be inside on the cold, rainy days that will come this fall.

It is important, however, that the poultry houses be well ventilated when the pullets are placed in them. In many cases, some of the pullets have been roosting in trees, open sheds, or in open brooder houses. If such pullets are placed in a closed laying house they find the sudden change detrimental. Close, stuffy poultry houses often seem to increase the trouble with colds and other respiratory troubles.

Too frequently poultry houses are closed up tight because of the mistake that houses must be closed tight to be warm.

Raising the mash hoppers to thirty inches above the floor, by putting on extension legs is also suggested at this time of year as a means of avoiding vent-picking and other cannibalistic habits which pullets sometimes develop when permanently housed.

By attending carefully to the housing of birds now, by providing sufficient hopper space and getting them onto a laying mash, and then controlling the mash they consume by the amount of grain fed, many county poultrymen can make profits this winter, where otherwise losses might occur.

"Mail Early," Is Plea of Appleton Postal Officials

Postoffice Prepares to Meet Annual Rush of Christmas Season

"Mail Early and Avoid the Rush." Again that plea is being broadcast by the U. S. postal department to people throughout the country, and Appleton postal officials daily are receiving information which will help patrons lighten their own burdens as well as postal employees when the rush begins.

To the majority of people, the Christmas season is the best of the year, but to postal officials and employees it is the battle of the season. Already plans are underway to meet the rush and schedules for additional help and other reinforcements are being arranged.

The increase in Christmas greetings and parcel post from year to year is making the task of postal employees greater. Although many people have heeded the suggestions of postal officials to "mail early" there still are hundreds who wait until the final two days to do their mailing.

The "battle" with the mails usually begins about a week before Christmas and from that time on until the final greeting card and parcel post package is dispatched there is a continuous rush, 24 hours a day.

Fill Many Baskets Baskets filled with greeting cards are piled high, and clerks and additional help are kept on the jump facing the pieces so that the stamps are all in the same corner, preparatory to entering the cancelling machine. Every piece is handled individually, and then after the stamps have been cancelled, the cards again are handled separately in the sorting process.

Parcel-post packages are piled high and form a veritable market during the rush days. They are carefully sorted, and packed into countless pouches for delivery. The incoming mail is handled in a similar manner.

This year 10 trucks will be used to deliver the Christmas mail, and two men will accompany each vehicle. The objective is a "clear house" on Christmas eve, but postal officials warn that unless patrons mail early, this task is almost impossible.

Kay Francis and Powell in Film

Stars Appear in "One Way Passage" at Appleton Theatre

One of the strangest and most fascinating romances ever told is the theme of "One Way Passage," the Warner Bros. production co-starring William Powell and Kay Francis, which opens tonight at the Appleton Theatre for a three day run.

Most of the action is laid on a Pacific liner sailing from Hong Kong, where the two ill-fated lovers meet for the first time, to San Francisco, where the final farewells are said. William Powell has one of the most impressive roles of his career as Dan Hardesty, the seaborne criminal who is finally tripped up by the police. Kay Francis is considered by metropolitan critics to have the finest opportunity of her career in the role of Joan Ames, ready to give up life itself for a month of perfect happiness while the steamer pursues its course across the Pacific.

Warren Hymer has the part of Steve Burke, the dogged member of the San Francisco police force, who proves Hardesty's undoing. An abundance of comedy is supplied by two of Dan's fellow-crooks, engaged on the vessel, like himself. The roles are played by Aline MacMahon as "The Countess" and Frank McHugh as Skippy. Frederick Burton is the doctor traveling in attendance on Joan Ames. Douglas Gerrard is a titled Britisher who figures amusingly in the complications on board ship. Herbert Mundin contributes a vivid portrait of a steward.

"Million Dollar Legs" Reaches Laugh Heights

Opening Monday at the Elite Theatre for a 3 day engagement is Paramount's Olympiad farce, "Million Dollar Legs," said to be one of the most insanely funny pictures ever filmed.

It is laid in the mythical Republic of Klostokia, where all the girls are named Angela and all the men George; where it is a jail offense not to kiss a pretty girl; where the runners are so fast that they trip over frightened rabbits and have to hurdle fleeing deer; where the women are so beautiful that all the men find it totally impossible to keep their minds on their work—except the president, who is a woman-bater.

Jack Oakie, as the "clown prince," is the man who leads Klostokia to a thrilling victory in the Olympics. To W. C. Fields, Andy Clyde, Ben Turpin, Hank Mann, George Barbier, Hugh Herbert and Little Jack Moore—all tried and true farceurs—has been entrusted the rest of the comedy. Such beauties as Lyda Roberti, Susan Fleming, Geneva Mitchell and Nadine Doré cheer on the noble athletes—and how! Edward Cline, whose comedy experience dates back to the days of the old Keystone Kops, directed "Million Dollar Legs."

Bandit Role Actor in "The Broken Wing"

Leo Carrillo in physique and countenance admirably fits the character part of Capt. Innocencio, the leading male role in Paramount's picture of "The Broken Wing" which comes to the Elite theatre today and Sunday.

Carrillo played the part of the swaggering bandit in the recent revival of the drama, playing the principal cities of the West coast. His excellent work in the stage production won for him the same part in the picture version of the famous story. Lupe Velez, playing opposite him in the leading feminine role, together with three other actors and actresses of Spanish ancestry, give a pronounced Spanish tone to the picture and add to its realistic effect.

Skeptic, Vs. Believer, Is Challenge in Film

Are we creatures of free will or are our actions determined by stellar or planetary or other mysterious forces quite beyond our control?

Some who see "Thirteen Women" at the Appleton Theatre next Wed. and Thurs. will hold that astrology, fortune telling and all manner of oracular claims have been dealt a death blow. Others will interpret the events in this photodrama as conclusively proving the truth of astrology.

Who is right? Down the long centuries have trudged innumerable souls who have held that the Creator of the universe never draws aside the curtain of the future.

And side by side with them have trudged those who believed completely in signs and portents, and that their futures, written in the stars before they even were born, could be ascertained through the mysterious "sciences" of astrology, clairvoyance or numerology.

Irene Dunne, Ricardo Cortez, Myrna Loy, Mary Duncan and Florence Eldridge form the nucleus of a remarkable cast.

Holt Has "He-Man" Role in Polo Film

Jack Holt in a role that is not sympathetic! It's happened. In "This Sporting Age" you shall see the personable hero of "Flight," "War Correspondent," "Dirigible," "Submarine" and other hero yarns, as a human enough fellow but one who takes vengeance in his own hands.

When his beloved daughter, played by Evelyn Knapp, is harmed by Walter Byron (the scapegrace romantic in the story) Holt takes revenge in his own hands. An army officer and star polo player, he meets his man on the polo field and wreaks justice abruptly.

Moreover, he is a flirtatious type of individual, a detached male who lets his eyes wander in the direction of the come-hither vamp essayed by Ruth Weston.

"This Sporting Age," co-directed by A. F. Erickson and Andrew Ben- nison, has the swank background of an exclusive country club, as well as the interesting and colorful setting of an army post. Others in the cast are Hardie Albright, J. Farrell MacDonald, Reno and Laddie. It opens next Friday at the Appleton Theatre.

Gable, Harlow in Powerful Drama

Picture Reveals Glamorous Life on Rubber Plantation

The brutal, fever-bound, dangerous, but withal glamorous existence of life on a rubber plantation in Indo-China is revealed in all its dramatic perspectives in "Red Dust" which opens for a five day stand at the Fox theatre Monday, as a co-starring vehicle for Clark Gable and Jean Harlow.

Apparently no effort was spared to bring the Wilson Collison stage hit to the screen with all its original power. To put it mildly, this picture has "everything," from sizzling love scenes between Gable and the sensitive Miss Harlow to intensely exciting situations in which the entire cast is involved. Shots of terrific jungle storms and hurricanes that sweep through the little locale of the story provides many breath-taking thrills.

If there ever was a perfectly cast picture, it is this one. Gable offers a brilliant performance as the brutalized who repulses a girl of his own sort when a French engineer brings his beautiful young wife to the tropics. Miss Harlow is splendid as the woman of easy virtue who makes regular trips up the river from Saigon, eventually finds the man she wants to settle down with, and then has to put up a terrific fight for him.

Mary Astor as the unfaithful wife. Gene Raymond as the husband, Donald Crisp, Tully Marshall, and Forrester Harvey also give excellent accounts of themselves.

Election night, Nov. 8, there will be in addition to this special midnight feature along with Western Union bulletins as the election reports pour in over a special wire from coast to coast. The theatre will remain open as long as the patrons desire to remain.

World's Greatest Epic Recalled in New Film

Spectacular scenes of a kind that have never been flashed on the screen "before or since" will be witnessed by Elite Theatre audiences on Thursday next when "Forgotten Commandments" comes there for a 2 day run.

This stirring dramatic romance about ultra-modern life in a present day big city contains, as a logical sequence in its fast-action story, excerpts from the famous Cecil B. De Mille classic, "The Ten Commandments."

The cast is headed by Sari Mar-

McLaglen Features in Hilarious Grid Game

Half-back boxers, wrestlers made over into tackles, gorillas who become guards, and Broadway belles who go collegiate and become campus co-eds are said to furnish plenty of fun in "RICKETY RAX" the Fox comedy which comes to the Fox theatre, Appleton, Saturday.

It is a comedy-satire on sporting racketeers who muscle in on American college football and attempt to make "big business" out of the game.

Victor McLaglen is said to have a role which is funnier than the parts he had in "THE COCK-EYED WORLD" and "WHAT PRICE GLORY". Feminine interest is strong throughout the comedy with Greta Nissen, Norway's pretty platinum blonde as a tenderloin sweetie; and Nell O'Day, musical comedy personality girl, as a smart and pretty newspaper woman.

County Republicans Hear Hoover Today

It was estimated this morning by Republican leaders that several hundred Outagamie-co G. O. P. enthusiasts were on their way to Madison to attend a political rally there at noon when President Herbert Hoover was to speak. The delegation, which was headed by Robert O. Schmidt, chairman, and F. P. Young, secretary of the Outagamie Republican committee, left by cars for Madison this morning. Conference Opens for Young Folks

THE value of friendships between young people and adults was stressed by Dr. Robert W. Gammon, Chicago, in his address at the opening session of the Wisconsin State Young People's Conference Friday afternoon at the Methodist church. Dr. Gammon said that oftentimes friendships with adults save young people from mistakes and unhappy experiences because the older people have the benefit of greater knowledge and wider experience. He expressed the belief that many men had been led into the right way through friendships they had cultivated.

Over 200 young people from all over the state are registered at the conference. The meeting opened Friday afternoon with a preparation period led by C. Otis Clark, Milwaukee and the talk by Dr. Gammon. H. H. Ewing, Milwaukee, introduced a discussion leader, Roy A. Burkhardt, nationally known young people's worker and director of the Youth Council of Young People's Work for the International Council of Religious Education, talked on "Setting Our Stakes." Mr. Burkhardt outlined the plan of the conference, after which the young people went into their respective groups until 5 o'clock.

At Supper

One hundred forty-two were served at the supper Friday night, after which the discussion groups continued their conferences. Devotions were held at 9 o'clock.

A worship period at 8:30 opened the conference program Saturday morning, and the groups convened for the rest of the morning. A luncheon was served at 12 o'clock, and the groups again met at 1:30. A hymn service took place at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and the interpretation or summing up of proceedings of various discussion groups began at 3:15.

A banquet of fun will take place at 8:30 Saturday night at the Methodist church. At the banquet, George Nixon will sing and give selections on a musical saw, Jack Sampson will present violin selections and Russell Wichman will give several piano solos. An orchestra will play before and during the banquet, and group singing and stunts by the various group delegations will conclude the program.

At 8:30 there will be a communion service conducted by Dr. J. A. Holmes assisted by various visiting ministers. Dr. John W. Wilson will talk on "The Approach to Communion."

A morning watch at 9 o'clock will begin Sunday's program. This service will be held at Main hall, Lawrence college. The discussion groups will meet at Main hall at 9:20. The young people have been invited to join in the regular service at 11 o'clock at the Methodist church when Dr. P. R. Hayward, director of young people's work, International Council of Religious Education, will preach the sermon. However, the delegates may attend the church services of their own denominations if they wish.

Closes Tomorrow

The conference will close its three-day program with a session at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Methodist church, which is open to the public, both adults and young people of all churches, whether or not they are registered at the conference. The meeting will open with a song service at which Russell Wichman will give several organ selections. At 2:30, Roy A. Burkhardt will give the closing address, "Is He Your Master?" The address will be built around the theme of the conference, "Why Call Ye Me Master?"

Mr. Burkhardt has had wide experience in young people work, and is, at present director of the Youth Council of the Young People's Work for the International Council of Religious Education, and of the Older Girls and Boys' camps at Lake Geneva, Wis., Geneva, Glen, Colo., and Lake Winipislauee, N. H. He is the author of "Home of My Dreams," and writes for the International Journal of Religious Education and many other religious and youth papers.

Following Mr. Burkhardt's talk, officers of the conference will be installed.

Club Will Study Religious Beliefs

Reasons for the religious beliefs people have will be discussed at weekly meetings of the Men's Sunday Morning club of the First Congregational church, opening for the season at 9:30 Sunday morning. The leader will be Dr. John R. Denyes, professor of religion at Lawrence college, who will introduce the discussions with talks on "Present Day Religious Problems."

Some of the subjects scheduled for the meetings are the reason for people's belief in God, the nature of God and how people know there is evidence of a Supreme Being, the future life, and the inspiration of the Bible.

Dr. Denyes has had contact with men of many religious faiths in his 30 years of religious leadership, part of which was spent as a missionary in Asia. He is familiar with Buddhism, Confucianism, Mohammedanism and Hinduism. He is a graduate of Northwestern University and Garrett Biblical Institute, and was an instructor for two years in a graduate theological school.

The leader hopes to point out in his addresses just why Christians believe the things they do believe. Frank B. Younger, president of the club, will preside at the sessions. The officers are: C. E. Foresman, secretary; Earl Lutz, treasurer.

Miss Margaret Engler, daughter of Mrs. Hattie Engler, 815 E. South River, who returned recently from abroad where she studied for two years, left Friday afternoon for California where she expects to reside.

Afraid to Smile

Teeth neglected in childhood mar her beauty today — yet modern dentistry can do much to correct this condition.

People think of teeth first from the standpoint of beauty. Your doctor and dentist think of them first in terms of good health. In either case, the meaning is the same, for the healthy mouth is the best-looking mouth. While childhood is the best time to assure attractive teeth, much can be done for adults. For the sake of your appearance and your health, visit your dentist regularly.

Lawrence Gives Roosevelt Edge; Hoover Gaining

Writer Lists Minimum Requirements for Both Major Candidates

ker investigation," then Roosevelt will come out of greater New York with 800,000 which is more than enough to offset any up-state majority. If indeed there is such a thing in the Empire state this year with the low totals of registration in the upper end of the state. But can Hoover win without New York? He could but it is doubtful if he will, extremely doubtful. And if Election night he returns and the president is losing New York, then indeed is his cause dealt a body blow. Here is a table which sets forth Hoover's best chances and after reading it, one must examine its weak spots to determine whether it is a useful guide in any respect. The table falls down in two places. The first is in appraising his strength then the Hoover totals are dashed to the ground. If it seems 100 per cent convincing then the president can be said to have better than an outside chance. The estimate from such a viewpoint follows:

California	22
Nebraska	7
New Hampshire	7
Massachusetts	17
Oregon	5
Colorado	6
Michigan	19
Indiana	14
Pennsylvania	36
Delaware	3
Vermont	3
Montana	4
Kansas	4
Wyoming	3
West Virginia	8
New Jersey	16
Connecticut	8
Maine	5
Utah	4
Illinois	29
Minnesota	11
Iowa	11
Ohio	26
Total 270. Necessary to elect 266.

Several States Shaky
But in the foregoing table, Minnesota is shaky and so is Ohio. Neither would shatter the set of up. It may be, however, that New York with 47 which is not in the above group of states will furnish a surprise if Tammany really does not deliver its vote to Roosevelt. Any such happening would enable Hoover to lose Illinois and Ohio whose total vote is 55 and then if he picked up Rhode Island with 4, he would still have 266.

This presupposes that everything else besides Ohio and Illinois in the above table will stand pat if Hoover did carry New York. Well, the table of Hoover chances isn't as staunch as it looks. Nebraska and Kansas are weak spots and so are Minnesota and Iowa.

Can Hoover carry every single state in the above table? There are 5 that he must carry—California, Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota and Ohio. He may carry two of them or even three but he is lost unless he gets five out of five. It is possible but not probable.

Having demonstrated that the president has only an outside chance and then only if he has the "breaks"—which means that the tide of the last two weeks must mount higher than it has already—the next thing to determine is what minimum there is from a Roosevelt viewpoint. It matters little how the final electoral vote come in just so long as the 266 is assured.

Hoover is apt to see in a definite prediction can be made on the outcome of the election rather than to attempt an exact mathematical table when there are so many combinations possible. The interest is in who will be the next president and few people remember the exact way the electoral votes are tallied after 266 is reached.

Roosevelt Minimum

The irreducible minimum for Roosevelt is as follows:
Alabama	11
Arizona	3
Arkansas	8
Colorado	9
Florida	7
Georgia	12
Idaho	4
Illinois	29
Kentucky	11
Louisiana	10
Maryland	8
Mississippi	9
Missouri	15
Nebraska	7
Nevada	3
New Mexico	3
North Carolina	14
North Dakota	4
Ohio	26
Oklahoma	11
South Carolina	8
South Dakota	4
Tennessee	11
Texas	23
Virginia	11
Washington	8
Wisconsin	12
Total 279. Necessary to elect 266.

It will be noted that by the foregoing Roosevelt wins without New York, California, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Jersey, or West Virginia and the writer believes that Franklin Roosevelt has better than an even chance of carrying at least five out of those nine states. Hence the final electoral table may look quite different from either one given above but again it must be noted that the second table is not so much a forecast of the way the states will line up as it is a demonstration of the greater probability of a Roosevelt than a Hoover victory.

Text of Hoover Speech At Wisconsin Capital

Madison—(P)—The text of President Hoover's speech follows:

"It is a great pleasure to come to a city which has made itself famous by the contribution of a great university to the thought and leadership in modern life. My own home for 40 years has been on the campus of another great university, and I have valued to the highest degree the constant refreshment that has come to me from the idealism and dreams of youth who come to these institutions to fit themselves for this leadership in national life. I know your minds are alive to the great problems of our times, and that you are conscious of the new forces that have entered into the world and into our national life.

It is not my purpose to discuss at length with you economic issues. I would rather discuss with you those fundamentals for which America stands. These fundamentals are being tested daily in this the greatest peace-time crisis of our history. We have built a nation on certain conceptions of equality and personal freedom that are unique in the world. As a people we have sought a system that would give opportunity and stimulate each individual to his intellectual uttermost, and by the accretion of these contributions to enrich national life and to produce progress and through the sum of them to produce a new intellectual standard for the world and the guarantee of a national progress that will be worth all we have endured in it. We have exacted political equality.

Equality at Birth
We have created equality of men at birth, equality of men before the law, and we have set the ideal of an equal opportunity for men and women. However much it may have fallen short of the ideal, it is yet infinitely more advanced than that held up before men in any other nation in the world. By these social conceptions, by the form of government, there have been created and given to our people opportunity of expression that has set new standards, created a unique society in the whole world.

A fundamental part of this equality of opportunity and the part in which the United States is unique and envied of all peoples is our system of universal free education, by which the child of the humblest home may learn from the alphabet of Einstein theory all that the mind of man has accumulated down the ages for his instruction and equipment to meet the battle of life. So zealous have we been to maintain this fundamental of an equal opportunity of men, and the sum of the accomplishments which produce the progress of the nation, that it is not remarkable that in the fullness of this freedom which we have protected, there has periodically in our history its transformation into a license, especially in the economic field, and crime which must be vigilantly restrained. Our fundamental purpose is the development of moral and spiritual growth and the strengthening of national ideals and national character. But in the restraints we have to be constantly on guard that we not stifle the intellectual opportunities and the initiative of men, for out of these flows the new strength upon which the nation constantly feeds.

We are therefore constantly confronted with the dilemma of how to preserve that set up and still preserve that vital initiative and intellectual freedom which bear the elements of self-control which belong to self-government. On the other side we have to constantly guard lest in our restraints we regiment men instead of creating free men.

Law Violation

One of the very pertinent questions which arise out of this liberal license to men is the violation of law. Lawlessness and crime have unquestionably grown in our country. Some ascribe it to the too great license of individual liberty, some to the breaking down of moral restraints due to the great war and some to prohibition and a hundred other causes. Some have urged that we must change the whole basis of our federal system, and that we should place the burden of this restraint upon the federal government because of the failure of some states and some municipalities to give proper function to these responsibilities. Yet there would be destruction of state sovereignty, local responsibility, the destruction of individual responsibility, and make a nation of vassals through bureaucracy concentrated at a far distant point.

The responsibility for the control of crime rests emphatically upon the states and the local communities. Our civilization will rise no higher than the concepts of order that resides in the self-control of an educated people. I think you are all conscious of the humiliation that comes to our countrymen when the federal government must deliberately use the violation of income tax laws to collect gains on crime in order to curb these criminals who are uncontrolled, unprotected and unconvinced by the state and municipalities.

I can discuss this subject with more heart in the state of Wisconsin than any other state in the Union, because you have recognized your responsibilities and you have sought to preserve your people from the forms of crime which in other places dictate the very conduct of communities and indicate a clear sense of responsibility and vigilance in your people.

The gangster life which was developed in some of our cities and states is one of the most dangerous elements to the whole of our civilization. It would seem that the governor of New York, who is a candidate for the presidency of the United States, might have made a contribution in these last three years to the solution of gang life, under the great powers conferred and obligations bestowed by the

Depend on Tariff

The workers in the great industries of Wisconsin, both agricultural and industrial, are dependent for their standards of living as never before upon the maintenance of the protective tariff. Dependent also is the fate of the small business man upon the prosperity thus protected.

In the agricultural field I need only to refer to your dairy industry, where you lead the entire Union. Today its products, distressingly low as their prices are, would be 25 to 30 per cent lower if it were not for the tariff wall which surrounds them. The consequence of the collapse of thirty foreign governments and the consequent depreciation of their currency, which means also the lowering of their wages and standards of living there, are endeavoring to make breaches in our tariff walls which retard the recuperation in agriculture over these last six or eight months. This has indeed grown to such a point of seriousness that you have had to consider, not the reduction of these tariffs which our Democratic opponents propose, but the strengthening of this wall of protection. Fortunately we have been able to thwart our opponents in their endeavor to destroy the independent authority of the tariff commission with its flexible potencies. We now have before that commission a reconsideration of the necessity of a primary industry in your state.

Nor are you manufacturing industries less dependent upon it than your agricultural industries. Without the protective tariff, which our opponents propose, you must be faced with an increasing unemployment instead of the steady march of recovery and of employment which are evident on every hand. We have passed through in the last three years the greatest crisis in our peace-time history. We have witnessed the economic crash of two-thirds of the world, and its repercussions have moved in upon our people in a manner which has at times endangered even our national stability. We have seen the last fortress of strength in a crashing world. By the unprecedented measures which we have taken we have prevented a chaos which might have extended over generations.

"Offensive for Recovery"

This battle of defense has now through these measures been turned into a great offensive for recovery. There was little opportunity for it to make itself felt in recovery until after the adjournment of congress, with their constant destruction of confidence and spreading of fear among measures which were being presented to the American people and passed by a Democratic house of representatives. But in these four months since we have seen the return of a million men to work, and the records show that they are returning today at a rate of half a million a month. Materially it is of the greatest importance to you and every American citizen that this great economic front shall not be interrupted by the long delays which are proposed to you in order that there shall be a change in politics and strategies.

I have endeavored in the presentation of these and many other issues to appeal to the thoughtful people of the United States, and I accept this demonstration as evidence of the support which you are giving to me out of your conviction in this battle. I have made no endeavor to appeal to emotion but to reason. I have fixed my faith upon the logical conclusions of a thoughtful people.

Schmedeman in New Attack Upon Bonds Purchases

Says 38 Per Cent of Total In Utility, Railroad, Foreign Bonds

(By The Associated Press)
Mayor A. G. Schmedeman, Democratic candidate for governor, said in a campaign speech at Eau Claire last night that the state investment board appointed by his Republican opponent, former Gov. Walter J. Kohler carried 38 per cent of all state investments in private utility, railroad and foreign bonds.

"Those investments mean not only to the state teachers' retirement fund but also to the state benevolent fund, the death benefit fund, the injuries indemnity fund, and the state life fund," Schmedeman said.

"Let me reveal in actual figures what my discoveries regarding the Kohler appointed investment board's operations are. I take those figures from the report by Kohler's state annuity and investment board as made to the state legislature in 1931.

"First I want to show what was done with the state teachers' retirement fund in 1929 and 1930 under Kohler's administration. Farm mortgage loans from this fund totaled $2,215,650. Wisconsin municipal bond purchases from this fund totaled $75,000.

"In passing I want merely to mention for the edification of the other 70 counties of the state that of this $75,000 of municipal bonds purchased by Kohler's investment board that $400,000 went to Sheboygan-co, the Hoover-big-business-utility candidates' home county.

Total Purchases
"Purchases of the Kohler board in private utility bonds, railroad securities, and foreign bonds total $1,735,000. That would amount to more than 36 per cent of the purchases by the Kohler-appointed board were in private utility and foreign bonds from the teachers' pension fund alone.

"In the benevolent fund we find more than 44 per cent of the funds invested were in utility securities and the remainder in municipal bonds.

"More than 40 per cent of the funds of the death benefit fund were sunk in utility and railroad bonds with the remainder going to other securities.

"In the injuries indemnity fund we find that more than 75 per cent of the funds invested from his fund by the Kohler board was in utility bonds, only $18,000 of a $78,000 fund going to municipal and other securities.

"The last fund is the state life fund. Here I find that a total of $101,000 was handled by the investment board, $60,000 of it going into utility bonds and $21,000 going into municipal and other bonds. In this case more than 79 per cent of the total funds went into utility bonds.

"The actions and operations of the Hoover-big-business-utility candidates' investment board are extremely enlightening in view of the fact that the big business candidate himself is desperately trying to convince Wisconsin voters that he is not a utility candidate."

Precedent Is Blown to Bits in Political Drive

New Alliances and Great Shifts Characterize This Year's Campaign

BY BYRON PRICE

Washington—Time alone can assign to 1932 its exact significance in the evolution of the American political system, but it is possible even now to catalogue some of the things which must stand out when the historian of the future leafs through the records of this troubled period.

Certainly it can be said that, in long retrospect, the campaign will appear notable for the political shift of base on prohibition; for the effort to bring the western progressives under democratic leadership; for the rise of the socialist party to new prominence; and for several changes in the tendencies and methods of the two old parties themselves.

Whether these turns in the road will be important eventually cannot now be foretold. Any one of them may be the beginning of great things, or of nothing. At least they all are eloquent of the political state of the union in 1932, and surely they present interesting data for the student of national psychology.

Shift On Prohibition

Few political developments in recent years have been more spectacular than the swing of the major party candidates away from the present prohibition regime.

Other issues have had greater public notice in the last weeks of the campaign. The nominees have talked of the tariff, of the fundamental relations of government to private enterprise, and of many things besides; but all these discussions have been clouded by complications so that it is disputed how far either party has departed, if at all, from its previous tenets.

On prohibition, the case is much clearer. Both presidential nominees have directly asked for a change; which means that 1932 has seen one of those surges of political sentiment for which the historian always watches.

Two Questions Raised

Secession of a considerable group of the western progressive leaders from the republican ticket does not in itself represent a new trend in politics.

Something similar has happened twice before within the last twenty years. In 1912 the Roosevelt progressive ticket polled 4,136,000 votes; and in 1924 the LaFollette progressive ticket polled 4,892,000. The historic thing about the 1932 secession is that, after two unsuccessful attempts to go it alone as a third party, those western progressives who have left the republicans are linking their fortunes this time with the democrats.

Two of the most interesting questions which this campaign has raised are these:

Can the democratic-progressive alliance now be put on a permanent basis, so as to go forward in future campaign years as a working entity?

Can the tremendous gains made by the socialist party in 1932 be preserved, even in large part, in future elections.

History Made

Aside from the alliances they have made, and the gains and losses they have suffered, a good many other things have happened to both of the great parties.

The democratic campaign geared itself to an appeal to liberalism, an informality of procedure, and a disregard of precedent unmatched for many years.

The republican tradition of sitting tight, disregarding the roars of the opposition, and trusting to a normal republican majority to do its work on election day, has been blown to bits. President Hoover's last-minute dash into the thick of the fray will be long remembered in party annals.

All in all, the campaign appears now to have made much real history, although the full measure of its contribution remains to be taken after the smoke has cleared away more completely.

Badgers Interested in Outdoors, Writer Finds

BY BERT CLAFIN

That the big outdoors not only holds great attraction for the adults of Wisconsin, but also is being drawn upon in the education of the coming generation was evidence enough for me when I saw the long lines of students from the Milwaukee University and Boys Technical High School of that city file into the Athletic Club Building to listen to my speech recently before the Izaak Walton Chapter of Milwaukee.

Not so many years ago it was considered silly for anyone to be interested in outdoor sports. In fact, a man who would fish or hunt was considered a bit "queer." Fortunately, all that has now changed, and today hundreds of thousands of people from all walks in life look eagerly forward to their fishing and hunting trips, to their days of camping, water sports, hiking, riding and just basking in the glorious sunshine which invigorates their tired brains and bodies far more than can any man-concocted stimulants or medicine.

The class in forestry of the Milwaukee University that listened with great attention to my talk on the outdoors showed intense attention and interest in what I had to say. After the program was over they gathered about me, and with equal interest plied me with questions in competition with judges, attorneys, other professional men and women, heads of libraries and museums, teachers and individuals at the head of businesses of varying nature.

All this convinced me beyond any doubt that nowadays the big outdoors is the one great thing that is occupying the minds of people who look forward to more benefit and better enjoyment in their modes of play.

Should Watch Asset

It convinced me, too, that Wisconsin has an asset that is worth millions to its residents. This asset should be jealously watched, encouraged in every way and advertised far more extensively than it is today. It is the stock in trade which not only contributes in so great a measure to the welfare of the people of Wisconsin, but which also draws millions of non residents to our state to romp and play in our great natural heritage, and also, incidentally, to spend annually upwards of a quarter of a billion dollars here.

This stupendous amount of money benefits each and every one of Wisconsin's population directly or indirectly. For that reason every newspaper in our state should contribute space and editorials to the advancement of the cause. Many are now doing it, but not enough. Michigan, Minnesota and even Canada are making liberal bids for our tourist business. They are advertising extensively in newspapers and magazines, and as a result they are taking away from us much of our revenue.

A newspaper's favorable attitude toward our natural attractions cannot help but attract to its columns added advertising from resort owners, northern property holders, hotels, gas stations and, in fact, hundreds of merchants who derive a revenue from the great influx of tourists. It is worthy of an effort, then, to prevent its being lost to our sister states.

South Again Is Battle-Ground Of Politicians

Memories of First Break Since Civil War Remain With Democrats

Atlanta, Ga.—(AP)—Memories of the break in the solid south four years ago are constantly before Republican and Democratic campaigners as the decisive date of Nov. 8 draws near.

Orators of the Democratic party from stumps throughout Dixie are "laying in on harder" as the days pass. Equally fierce are the Republican thrusts.

The avowed object of the Democrats is to reclaim Florida, North Carolina, Virginia and Texas, which four years ago for the first time since reconstruction, voted for the Republican presidential candidate. The party managers say that they are determined also to carry Kentucky and Tennessee. The former has thrice and the latter twice voted for the Republican presidential nominee since 1896.

Republicans are contesting every inch of ground and express confidence they will repeat for President Hoover this year in the states of this section which they carried in 1928. They are also challenging Democratic control in other states of the south.

Tennessee and Kentucky are the main battle fronts, with Virginia, Florida, North Carolina and most of the other southern states scenes of encounters of varying degree.

Kentucky and Virginia are electing congressmen-at-large due to court action invalidating their re-districting acts.

Intensive campaigns are being waged in both states. The Republican candidates in Virginia are making a two weeks' sound-truck tour with a big rally set for Richmond Friday night. The Democrats held a big rally in Richmond Tuesday night following a torch-light parade. Gov. John G. Pollard and former Govs. Harry Byrd and E. Lee Trinkle are stumping for the Democrats.

Tennessee Doubtful

Both sides are claiming Tennessee. Horace Frierson, Jr., Democratic campaign manager, predicts Roosevelt "unquestionably" will carry Tennessee by a "majority approximating 100,000, according to the way things look at this time."

Howard B. Shofner, Republican campaign manager, sees a close race, but thinks "we have a good chance to carry Tennessee" by from 10,000 to 20,000. Four years ago Hoover received 38,000 majority.

Jake Newell, senatorial nominee, and Clifford Frazier, nominee for governor, head the Republican campaign in North Carolina. Both are against repeal and are attacking the Democratic plank. Robert R. Reynolds, senatorial nominee, J. C. B. Ehringhaus, nominee for governor, and a score of other Democrats are stumping North Carolina for the state and national tickets.

For the first time in over 40 years South Carolina is hearing speeches from a Republican candidate for the U. S. senate. She is Miss Clara Harrigal, who praises President Hoover and attacks her Democratic opponent, Senator E. D. Smith. South Carolina and Mississippi were states which the Democrats carried by increased majorities four years ago over previous presidential contests.

The youngest governor in the United States, Richard B. Russell Jr., after his successful campaign for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Georgia, was called to the stump in Tennessee, Florida and North Carolina in behalf of the national and state tickets. He made several speeches in Florida where Dave Sholtz, Democratic nominee for governor, is opposed by W. J. Howey, Republican.

Tony Canzoneri Beats Petrolle to Retain Title

Express Wins But 2 Rounds From Champion

Decision of Officials are Unanimous; $78,000 Gate Reported

BY ALAN GOULD
NEW YORK.—(AP)—It appeared today that the fighting Petrolle of North Dakota have had enough of Tony Canzoneri, world's lightweight champion, to last them for a long time.

Billy, the pride of this scrappy clan, took up the feud last night before a roaring crowd of 18,000 in Madison Square Garden and ran a poor second to the titleholder in 15 bruising but somewhat monotonously one-sided rounds. He did much better than brother Frankie, who was knocked out by Canzoneri, but Billy was badly cut, battered and thoroughly outclassed by the barrel-chested, little Italian whose features mark him a miniature Babe Ruth.

Fight Draw $78,000 House
The fight drew a "gate" of $78,000, one of the biggest for the garden in two years.

Canzoneri's victory, in defense of the title he won two years ago from Al Singer with a single knockout punch, was so decisive that the unanimous decision of Referee Gunboat Smith and the two judges was a formality. The champion, on the Associated Press score-sheet, carried off 12 of the 15 rounds. Petrolle was credited with two, the eighth and tenth, while the first was even.

Petrolle, as game as they come and always charging forward, was licked to a frazzle throughout the five rounds after firing his last desperate broadside in the tenth. The veteran Fargo Express, although he occasionally connected, was a mark for Tony's stream of left hooks and overhand rights. He was wobbly under the fusillade; his right eye was closed, his already battered features cut and bleeding. The only time he left his feet, however, was when the force of a missed left swing sent him floundering to the floor momentarily in the final round.

Tony in Superb Condition
In superb condition, apparently fit enough to have gone 25 rounds as effectively as he did the 15, Canzoneri gave a masterful exhibition of footwork, boxing and punching. He not only outboxed but outlasted Billy, whose crouching, weaving style proved no such puzzle to Canzoneri as it did to Jimmy McLarnin and other headliners. At times he set so fast a pace that the Express looked like a slow freight.

Tony's best rounds were the fourth and thirteenth, in both of which he punched Petrolle all over the ring with a bewildering, rapid-fire attack to the head. The champion's only disturbing moments, it appeared, came in the eighth, when he had difficulty checking Billy's body attack, and the tenth, in which the challenger charged Tony all around the ring, worked both fists steadily and opened a small cut on his rival's face.

Petrolle's lack of stamina in the last five rounds indicated the possible effects of making the lightweight limit which he did by a shade, at 134½ pounds. Canzoneri weighed 132.

New York.—Tony Canzoneri, world lightweight champion, outpointed Billy Petrolle, Fargo, N. D., (15) retained title; Price Saunders, Chicago, outpointed Billy McMahon New York (8); Bobby Pacho, Los Angeles, outpointed Joey Costa, Jersey City (8); Manny Candia, Mexico City, knocked out Danny Dempsey, Scranton, Pa., (1).

San Francisco.—Leroy Haynes, Los Angeles, outpointed Babe Hunt, Ponca City, Okla., (10); Andy Divodi, New York, outpointed Jimmy Evans, Vallejo, (10).

Boston.—Primo Carnera, Italy, knocked out Les Kennedy, Vernon, Cal., (8).

San Diego.—Eddie Murdock, Oklahoma, outpointed "Swede" Berglund, San Diego, (10).

Distance Runners
In A. A. U. Marathon
New York.—(AP)—Distance runners from three nations—the United States, Japan and Germany—were entered in the Amateur Athletic Union's 10 mile championship run at Lewisohn stadium today.

Carrying Japan's colors was Taka Gon, a student at the University of Southern California and ninth in the Olympic marathon. Paul De Bruyn was Germany's representative.

Leading American contenders were "Whitey" Michelson, Louis Gregory, Bill Cox and Bill Steiner. Bill Chisolm of Los Angeles was favored in the seven mile championship walk which was to precede the run.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

THE 1931-32 basketball rules—again will govern play in Wisconsin high school competition it has been announced following a meeting of W. I. A. directors and officials in Milwaukee. The announcement means that the rule question in this state finally has been settled and that most of the cage teams will start practice in the next 10 days.

In giving its reason for failing to adopt the new ten second rule and center line on the floor which would have resulted in a faster game, the W. I. A. reasons that the faster game is too strenuous for high school boys and that the slow breaking game in vogue for the past few years is much better.

Personally we have never liked the slow break. It makes the game comparatively uninteresting and sprints play down to a couple of late minutes and a shot at the hoop. It is admitted the game as played under the 1932-33 rules will be faster and result in return to the fast break type of game. However,

Packers Open Road Tour With Chicago Cards

Jack Chevigny's Team Beaten at Green Bay by 15 and 7 Score

GREEN BAY, Wis.—The Green Bay Packers, their home season completed with a record of six victories and one tie game against National professional football league opposition, left Saturday noon for Chicago, where Sunday afternoon they will play the second of their two-game series with the Cardinals.

In the first contest between the contending clubs, the Packers were victorious, 15 to 7, by capitalizing on an unusual set of breaks and by playing smart, hard football throughout. This is the only defeat sustained by the Cardinals to date, and the Chicagoans expect to hitch themselves one rung nearer first place with an upset decision Sunday.

Cards Favored
Tradition favors the home team, as for the past two years the Packers have been trimmed by the Cards at Wrigley field. In the last two years, however, it was Ernie Nevers and the Warner system which turned the trick; next Sunday Coach Jack Chevigny's squad will give the Packers another taste of the Notre Dame style of play.

The Packers also use a much adapted form of the Rockne system, so that the great style of football will be used by both teams at Wrigley field Sunday.

The Boys will bring their complete backfield strength to Chicago, including Grove and O'Boyle at quarterback; Blood, Bruder, Lewellen, Herber and Englemann at halfback; Hinkle and McCrary at fullback.

The lineups:
GREEN BAY CARDINALS
CENTER Barragar, McNally

RIGHT GUARD Steinbach, Zeller
RIGHT TACKLE Hubbard, Gordon
Perry Williamson

RIGHT END Nash, Gantenbein Kassell, Rogge
QUARTERBACK Grove, O'Boyle Simas, Malloy

RIGHT HALFBACK Herber, Sheely
Englemann Holmar, Hill
FULLBACK Hinkle, McCrary Holm

Officials: Referee, George Lawrie, Chicago; umpire, Goron McNutt, Milwaukee; head linesman, Wilfred Smith, Chicago.

Whitewater Upsets Milwaukee Teachers

MILWAUKEE.—(AP)—The Whitewater teachers' college football team was assured today of at least a tie for the state teachers' conference championship as the result of a surprise 6 to 0 victory over the Milwaukee Peds.

Whitewater converted a blocked kick into a touchdown in the third quarter of yesterday's game and thereby ended the Milwaukeeans' successive conference victories at 16. LaCrosse, with two victories and one tie game, remained in a tie with Whitewater at the top of conference standings.

The Milwaukee team was outplayed throughout the game and repeatedly was forced to put up a staunch defense to protect the goal line. Sherman, Whitewater center, blocked a kick in the third quarter, knocking the ball into the end zone where Wandschneider fell on it for the only score of the contest.

Ohio Seeking Big Ten Win Over Wildcats

Purdue Alumni Honor Stag as Chicago, Boilermakers Meet

EVANSTON, ILL.—(AP)—Still seeking a western conference football victory, Ohio State's forces moved on Dyche Stadium today to meet Northwestern's wildcats.

Equipped with a running attack that so far had fallen short of expectations, the Buckeyes hoped to get going today and win their first victory since 1928 over Northwestern. Their chances were regarded as good, but no better than those of the Wildcats.

Coach Dick Hanley planned to start seven sophomores against Ohio, withholding such assets as Captain Pug Rentner, Ollie Olson, Ed Manske, George Dilley and George Potter. Ohio was expected to cut loose with its best right at the start.

PURDUE FAVORED
Chicago.—(AP)—Purdue's highly geared ground gaining machine came to Chicago today after its third victory of the Western conference football campaign, with A. A. Stag's university of Chicago eleven the intended victim.

There appeared to be no reason for thinking the Boilermakers, probably at their peak, would do other than defeat the Maroons, who had a better team in the hospital than available for such duty as the occasion required. Chicago's hopes were based mainly on the fact that anything may happen in a football game.

Purdue alumni association will present Mr. Stag with a blanket and a silver plated boiler-maker's hammer.

IRISH AT KANSAS

Lawrence, Kas.—(AP)—The Ramblers of Notre Dame smarting under last week's 12 to 0 defeat by Pitt, today were confident of regaining the victory road as they faced the University of Kansas in an intercollegiate football game.

Coach Hartley "Hunk" Anderson's proteges are expected by all but the most partisan of Jayhawkers followers to redeem the obligation incurred by a Notre Dame aggregation which exactly 28 years ago today dropped a 24 to 10 decision to a Kansas eleven. The two schools have not met in grid conflict since then.

In spite of the University of Pittsburgh defeat and the subsequent revamping of the eleven, the Ramblers are rated as favorites from almost any angle. However, the Jayhawkers hope to give the visitors and an estimated crowd of approximately 30,000 expected fans an interesting afternoon.

HUSKER CAPTAINS HURT

Lincoln, Neb.—(AP)—This thing of being captain of the University of Nebraska football team isn't what it's "cracked" up to be.

For several seasons it has been the custom at the Cornhusker school to divide up the captaincy among the senior members of the squad.

In the Kansas game two weeks ago Steve Hokus, veteran end, had the honor, but was handicapped badly because of an injured ankle, and barely got in the game.

Last week Corwin Hulbert, star tackle, was to have had the privilege of leading the Huskers against Kansas State. He watched the game from the bench because of an infected arm.

Today the Huskers play Iowa University at Iowa City, and Captain Chris Mathis, 147 pound backfield sparkler, lies in the college infirmary, unable to make the trip because of a practice injury.

Each was injured on the eve of

4th Ward Gridders Whip Fifth Warders

The Fourth ward football team whipped the Fifth warders yesterday afternoon at Wilson school field by a score of 31 and 6. The game was close until the second half when the Fourth warders got under way and scored three touchdowns in rapid fire order. Earl Ashman scored one touchdown when he caught a pass over the goal line, Clarence Bonifine counted three markers and an extra point, and Harvey Doro intercepted a pass and ran 55 yards for the other touchdown. Bonifine's punting was the sensation of the day. Teams wanting games with the Fourth warders should call 4474 at noon or in the afternoon between 4 and 5.

the game in which he was to have led the team to battle.

DAD'S DAY AT MINNESOTA

Minneapolis.—(AP)—Minnesota's only intercollegiate football game of the season brought Mississippi to Memorial Stadium today.

Coach Bernie Bierman of the Gophers, looking ahead to Big Ten games with Wisconsin and Michigan in the next two weeks, hoped for a "breather" and a workout for many reserves.

Four of his first stringers were not in the best of condition, three because of injuries and one due to a cold.

It was "dad's day" and the university expected a crowd of about 15,000.

Bloomington, Ind.—(AP)—On the trail of another Western conference football championship, the University of Michigan today invades an Indiana University gridiron for the first time. The game is the seventh meeting of the two Big Ten schools, and Indiana has won only one previous contest.

The undefeated and untied Wolverines, leading the conference pack, favor to retain their position, but the Hoosiers have shown enough power this season to be regarded as dangerous.

ZUPPKE VS. SPEARS

Madison.—(AP)—The strategy of Robert Zupke was pitted against that of Dr. Clarence Spears for the first time today as Illinois invaded Madison for a homecoming game with Wisconsin. It was the first meeting between teams coached by these mentors.

The Illini came carrying a threat of a heavy aerial bombardment. The Badgers' most powerful weapon was their running game, particularly power plays.

Coach Zupke, a Wisconsin graduate, saw the Illini upset the Badgers by a score of 3 to 0 in Wisconsin's homecoming ten years ago, the last meeting here between the teams. Last year the Badgers nosed out Illini 7 to 6. Today's game was the rubber game of a rivalry dating back to 1895, each team having won seven and tied two.

PITT BATTLES PENN

Philadelphia.—(AP)—Eastern, and possibly national, football title hopes were at stake as two of the country's unbeaten eleven, Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania, clashed on Franklin Field today.

Favored to win because of their slashing victories over Army and Notre Dame, the Panthers from western Pennsylvania nevertheless looked with respect upon a Pennsylvania team that has gone through five straight battles without a defeat. Pitt has only a tie with Ohio state to mar its otherwise outstanding record.

The Red and Blue eleven, holding the somewhat enviable psychological position of underdog and playing before a home-town crowd, placed its dependence largely upon a rugged, fast-charging line that has successfully broken up the backfield efforts of Dartmouth and Navy, the two major teams to fall before the Quaker onslaught this season.

Algoma Semi-Pro Eleven Plays Appleton "Reds"

COWBOY WHEELER, former Packers star, and his Algoma semi-pro team will meet the Appleton Reds at Brandt park tomorrow afternoon. The Bearcats will try their hardest to claw the Reds into submission while the local squad will be fighting to maintain its undefeated record. Wheeler has an outfit which will make things more than interesting for the afternoon, and it will take all the Reds have to come off the field victors.

The invading lineup will show Wheeler barking the signals. He tips the beams at 215 pounds and still has much of the drive which he displayed while with the Packers. Jimmy Knaepen, a former St. Norbert's star, will be at fullback, while Pat Johns, former Appleton youth and manager of the "Reds" line, will be at left half. Donnie Wieser, former Algoma high captain, will start at the other half. He has plenty of speed and is a vicious tackler. Isaac La Fond, 210 pounds Frenchman, will be at left tackle, with Tex Meyer, 215 pounds, at right tackle. The team boasts plenty of weight and experience, an advantage over the local squad.

Barflett Lund in Backfield
The Reds' lineup also shows former college and high school stars. Ralph Barflett and Lewellen Lund, will be in the backfield, the former at quarter and the latter at fullback. Both are former Lawrence captains and all conference men.

BIG CHIEF STAGG OF ILLINI

The biggest tribute the University of Illinois could give the Grand Old Man of football, Amos Alonzo Stagg, was a major letter "I," and a chieftainship in the school organization, the "Illini." This honor to the retiring coach of Chicago was bestowed before the recent Illinois-Chicago game. The above photo shows Stagg in his chief's headdress after its presentation.

R. & S. Shoes Win From Oshkosh

Priebe and Kneip are Leading Scorers in First Game

The R. and S. Shoe basketball team, formerly the Bears, opened the season last night with an impressive 34 and 18 win over the Fowlers of Oshkosh. The Oshkosh team showed the pick of basketball talent in the Sawdust city, including Daniels leading scorer in the Fox River valley conference two years ago, Pugh, Tadych and Palinger.

The Shoes presented a smooth, fast breaking attack which enabled them to break into the clear and score almost at will. Priebe led the scoring for the Shoes with four field goals and two free throws for 10 points. Kneip followed with three field goals and two free throws for eight points.

Milton College Is Beaten by Platteville

Milton.—(AP)—The Milton college football team was defeated, 20 to 6, by the Platteville State Teachers college in a homecoming game here yesterday. Platteville's offense functioned smoothly and their opponents were outclassed in every department of play. Captain Stevens, halfback, and Marquette, right tackle, played the best defensive game for Milton. Smith, fullback, scored Milton's only touchdown. Weibel, Bellows and Smith scored for Platteville.

The largest physical education class in the history of the Kansas City Athletic club, reported for opening sessions this fall.

State Highs to Play Old Cage Rules This Year

W. I. A. A. Rejects New Regulations as Making Game Too Fast

MILWAUKEE.—State high schools will play basketball this winter under last year's rules, it has been decided by the Wisconsin Interscholastic association at the auditorium. A storm of protest over the new code, particularly the 10-second rule, caused the W. I. A. A. to revert to the rules of the 1931-1932 season.

The 10-second rule, made last year by the collegiate basketball committee, declares that an offensive team must carry the ball beyond the middle of the floor in 10 seconds. The rule was designed to do away with stalling, but the W. I. A. A. decided it was too fast, as well as impractical for high school teams.

The W. I. A. A. voted to continue its athletic accident benefit plan, but the board of control will meet next month to work out a new system of financing. If the present plan is carried out for another year the state association will be several thousand dollars in arrears. Among the new finance plans under consideration are the raising of dues to all schools, the adjustment of dues in regard to the benefit received by an individual school and the assessment of a small sum on each athlete. The latter suggestion is not in conformity with the present state insurance laws, but if no other plans are feasible the W. I. A. A. will ask the legislature to allow a small assessment on each athlete to provide funds for the benefit.

There have been more accidents in football among athletes in the state this year than in 1931, according to W. I. A. A. officials, but a decrease has been noted in the number of serious injuries. This drop has been attributed to the new football rules.

Announcement was made that F. V. Towell, Platteville, has been appointed to the board of control for a five-year term. Mr. Powell is secretary of the organization.

Kaukauna — Pre-election talk in Kaukauna indicates that the city will assist the Democratic candidates for president and vice president and the Republican candidate for governor. THE PERIOD of six thousand five hundred and eighty-five days and eight hours, after which time all eclipses are repeated, is known as the Saros. After this length of time, the sun and moon return to nearly their original positions, but the eclipses are not visible in the same areas of the earth, because of the excess of eight hours in the period. During this eight hours the earth performs one-third of a rotation on its axis, which brings a different region under the sun.

Here and There Among Farmers

Black Creek—In accordance with his regular practice, Walter A. Blake is top dressing a 15 acre, spring seeding of alfalfa. He said that the old and spring seedings of alfalfa and clovers are in much better condition to go into the winter now than a year ago. His fields are in excellent condition.

Mrs. Blake raised 33 geese the past summer as compared with 38 two years ago.

Black Creek—Mones Eberhard, one of the pioneer farmers of this vicinity, raised the largest crops of corn and small grain this season that his farm has produced in the past 20 years. He threshed 1,350 bushels of grain.

He is not as well pleased with his grass and cabbage crop, however. He drew $55 for his field of cabbage that should have brought $300. He explained by saying the price of cabbage was unusually low this fall and that his crop was comparatively light. His spring seedings of alfalfa and clovers dried up last summer, but his grass and rye seedings are fair. He has finished his plowing and most of his other fall work.

According to Walter H. Wieckert, proprietor of the Wieckert farms, route 4, spring and old alfalfa seedings are in good condition for the coming winter.

Mr. Wieckert recently started shredding corn in his barn. He intends to feed the cut stalks to his cattle. The cattle will dispose of the cut stalks and the smaller parts of all stalks cut. The part of the cut stuff refused by the cattle Mr. Wieckert will use for bedding.

Republican Old Guard in Senate May be Wiped Out

Smoot, Watson, Moses and Jones All in Danger Of Losing

Washington — To the addict of the Senate galleries, no one thing in the campaign is more distressing than the possibility that the most famous of the old Republican wheel horses are about to be retired to private life.

The Old Guard actually seems to be in danger of being wiped out. If we lose Reed Smoot of Utah, Jim Watson of Indiana, George Moses of New Hampshire and Wesley Jones of Washington hardly any one will be able to recognize the next Senate when it convenes.

All are said to be threatened with defeat, although it is not inconceivable that each one will put through. They have been in the Senate longer than any other of the regular Republicans except Freddie Hale of Maine, who is not up for re-election this year.

Smoot, the serious-minded 70-year-old chairman of the Finance Committee, co-father of the present tariff act and famous for his proper literature, has been in the Senate ever since 1903, longer than any other member.

A conservative of conservatives and a regular of regulars, he has plodded through a long and distinguished but not brilliant career of service to his party and his state.

Now he finds Prof. Elbert D. Thomas, who teaches history and political science at the University of Utah and nominee of the Democrats, running ahead of him in the straw votes by a healthy majority. Silver mining is stagnant in Utah and prices of wool and other crops are down. Smoot consequently has a real fight on his hands and must convince the voters that the Democrats, if in power, would lower tariff rates and put them in a worse hole than they are in now.

"Sunny Jim" Watson's chances are reported considerably poorer than Smoot's. Dispatches from Indiana have the veteran Republican floor leader dashing more or less frantically around the state in what appears to be a last case, after a career which carried him first to the House in 1894 and made him a senator in 1916.

The Republican party in Indiana is said to be in bad shape and Jim, who won only by 11,000 votes in 1926, has a strong, progressive Democratic opponent in Frederick Van Nuys.

Roosevelt is expected to carry Indiana and Watson also has against him the weight of a strong Democratic state ticket which includes Paul V. McNutt, former American Legion commander, for governor. Watson has been making speeches about the benefit of the Hawley-Smoot tariff which are said to have cleared up othering emdromhrfish to diminish his unpopularity.

One would automatically assume that George Higgins Moses was assured of re-election in New Hampshire, but authoritative advices from the battlefield say he is rather more likely to be defeated by Fred H. Brown, who was nominated by the Democrats.

George Higgins is the Senate's president pro tem, and also its champion wisecracker. He has been wisecracking through the campaign but has experienced difficulty in wisecracking off the depression or the charges that he raised the religious issue in the 1928 presidential campaign.

Brown is a public service commissioner, a strong and shrewd candidate, and the friends of Governor Winant, Republican, apparently are doing little to save the skin of George Higgins. Many Republicans are expected to vote for Winant and Brown. At any rate, the fate of George Higgins is doubtful.

Jones, author of the "Five and Ten" prohibition law and chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee, may win because of a tendency of conservative Democrats in Washington to desert his opponent, Homer T. Bone.

The latter is a Tacoma lawyer and head of the city port. He is denounced as a radical because he is a fighter for public ownership. He will also poll a large wet vote against Jones and some observers think he will win.

Remodeling Program Nearing Completion

Kaukauna—Remodeling of the Mill building is rapidly nearing completion under direction of John Copes, local contractor. About 20 men are being employed in the reconstruction of the building, which was razed by fire in September, 1931. The building will house the Kaukauna Times Printing Co., a barber shop, restaurant and a flat on the south end of the building. One half of the structure will be only one story high.

Be it further

NOTE. If this amendment is ratified, a debt created for financing a municipally owned public utility, secured solely by the property or income of such public utility, and by which no municipal liability is created, will not be included as an indebtedness of the municipality in computing the borrowing power of such municipality under the constitutional 5% debt limitation.

Introduction

THE alarm whirled—as alarms, carefully set and wound, have a way of doing—whirled and strangled through the dark 67th street flat, reverberated in the area-way, punctuated by a slamming of windows and the sound of voices. “Aw, turn that alarm off, will ya?”

“Hey you, Moran—!”

Seven-thirty. . . . And Mona (nee Minnie) Moran stirred, nestled cozily for a moment, then lifted a slender arm from the coverlet and snapped off the shrill noise. She turned over again, placed a palm beneath her cheek and closed her eyes.

Mona long ago had decided that the last half hour of sleep caught this way—stolen really from the workaday world—was the most delicious. Thirty more drowsy minutes to reflect on this and that or to forget it all in the relaxation of another nap.

Mona had problems. What girl as young and lovely as Mona does not have—even when she is not, as Mona assuredly was—the support of her family? There were five in that family, counting Dad in the hospital and Bud, the elder brother, away from home when he had a job and back home when he broke.

Seven-forty. Seven-fifty. Seven-fifty-five.

Then, as if another alarm had sounded, Mona stirred again. She patted a dainty yawn with the back of her rose-tipped hand, glanced at the sleeping Kitty beside her—Kitty’s slim little girliness occupying more than half the narrow bed—and slid out carefully.

Mona stretched her arms again and took indifferent stock of herself in the mirror. She had become used to the pleasant report that mirror gave.

There were those who wondered why, with such a figure, such creamy skin, such gray-green eyes and miraculous brown hair, Mona had not followed her first job as errand girl and later model in Pilgrim’s with a stage affiliation.

It was true that Mona had had several such offers but she had rejected them all. To marry a stage electrician (more chorus girls did, you know, than landed millionaires) had no part in Mona Moran’s plans.

So she had taken a job as receptionist for the exclusive law firm of Garretson, Lawton and Amesbury.

“I see people here,” Mona confided to her friend, Lottie Carr. “I get to know them without parading half dressed behind the footlights, I learn to walk, to talk, to dress and how to act.”

Lottie, tall, blond and languorous, was a model at Pilgrim’s.

“That Carr girl is no better than she should be,” Ma would declare after one of Lottie’s visits to the Moran home. “Perfume. $20 an ounce! Handkerchiefs, $25 a dozen or I’m a liar. No good working girl—!”

“Oh, she’s all right, Mother!” Mona would protest. “It’s just that—that Lottie—” She would break off here for Mona could hardly finish as she had intended “It’s just that Lottie has no family to support.”

Ma would be hurt—and rightly so at that.

“Well,” Ma would weaken, “I don’t want that girl calling up the house. I don’t want you going out with her. My daughters are good girls!”

Mona was, and indeed, for that matter, so was Lottie. Mrs. Moran might have had the useful support of many rebuffed young men as to that.

Lottie, frivolous, gay, attractive in the costumes her position as model afforded her, would beg Mona to join her on frequent parties with that collection of young clubmen to whom Lottie referred as “the gang.”

“Sometimes, Lottie. But don’t count on me for many of these affairs. I need my sleep. I have to work.”

“Go to bed and never meet any nice people!” Lottie amended here. “You might get yourself a husband if you’d step out more. Ever think of that?”

Mona shook her head. “Yes, I think of it. But you don’t get them that way. I know my onions.”

And Lottie had rejoined significantly, recalling the maledictory 67th street flat, “I’ll say you do! But do you know the artichokes?”

As it happened Mona was not acquainted—then—with artichokes. Her answer was a shrug.

Mona knew that, for some time at least, she could not think of marrying. It was out of the question. Not with Bud acting as he did, in and out of a job, absent for days on end, home idling, begging small sums for carfare, cigarettes.

Not with her father in the hospital. Mona couldn’t go to a husband saddled with these family cares.

Her father! Mona’s patient, kindly, hard-working father, stricken suddenly with that obscure, powerful malady which no doctor named definitely, of which no doctor would predict the outcome! He had been in the hospital now for months. Terrence Moran and his wife had come to America years ago with such high hopes. They had left Ireland earlier than that for Scotland but in Glasgow had heard of America, the land of opportunity. Terrence had worked at this and that to provide for his ever-growing family. There had been two children older than Kitty, both dead.

The Morans had lived in the same flat for years, protesting against the gradual raise in rents after the subway was opened. In the apartment house Terrence Moran had been something of a figure, his kindly philosophy sought at all times.

His stockinged feet high on the window sill, his eyes twinkling over his newspaper which he read with laborious, loving lips, Dad, in his way, influenced the entire neighborhood. They came to him for advice in matters of courtship and weddings, for condolence at the time of death, for encouragement in illness.

He had settled the Casey twins “once and for all” the time they ran away to Jersey and had their mother worried to death. He had arranged—yes, had contributed heavily toward—Tim Callahan’s funeral. The night Joe Donahue’s baby was born Dad had walked the streets with him, giving him comfortable assurance that he and Flosie would both live through it to go through the whole thing all over again no doubt.

Lottie Carr had sufficient reason for adoring Mona’s father. There had been the time her own father had locked her out when she came home late from Coney Island with that Brower boy. Terrence Moran had straightened that out.

Yes, Mona certainly owed it to Dad to stick by the family and not to think of marriage until—until what? Mona’s thought could get no further with the problem but Lottie’s could—and did.

“Marry a man who’ll take care of your family for you,” was Lottie’s plan.

Such men are few and far between. So are girls like Mona, with trim figures, glowing bronze hair, best of all an angelic disposition.

“You are the sort of girl, my dear, who’ll marry some good-for-nothing some fine day and support him,” Lottie averred. “Well, always room for one more! Remember”—significantly—“you’re not getting any younger.”

“Why don’t you marry?” Mona would demand hotly at this stage of the discussion.

“I’ve made my plans,” Lottie would reply enigmatically. “Meanwhile, why not go out with us tonight and look the eligibles over?”

In spite of varying opinions on many subjects the girls were quite friendly.

From eight o’clock, when Ma gently knocked on Mona’s door to supplement the alarm, until eight-fifteen the dark, tinny little bathroom down the hall was Mona’s sole property. Ma knew it. Kitty knew it. Even Bud, the overlord of the radio, the easiest chair and the newspaper—acquiesced.

“She supports us all,” Ma would say flatly. “If all she asks is a hot bath in the morning, by hook or crook, she’ll get that bath.”

And Mona got it. It took a little convincing with the janitor but that was managed. A rich warm bath, creamy with cream salts given to Mona at Christmas by Lottie, 10 minutes relaxation in the dismal tin tub.

Another five minutes and Mona had dried her slender body, donned the wispy georgette thing she wore under her slip, brushed her bronze hair into its customary waves, deftly turning the ends into a roll at her creamy neck, touched her lips carefully with lipstick, and drawn her tailor-made wool gown over her head, settling the white frills at neck and wrist with a speculative frown.

A delicate film of powder came next. Mona’s smart little hat was drawn on carefully. Her purse, there. Her coat and gloves—here. Barring an accident or two, and breakfast in the office, she was ready.

Other girls at the law office wore silk dresses of flashy color and design. Cheap, typical. They were the dresses offered in many shops on lower Broadway. One could not, it seemed, bring one’s salary very far from Wall Street.

But Mona, sent by chance on an errand for her employer’s wife (serving on a charity committee), had observed that this exponent of the envied class wore black wool with delicate collar and cuffs. The girls of Mrs. Garretson’s gown had, in fact, cost a trifle more than the brown crepe frock Mona was wearing. Real lace was too expensive for Mona but it was not long after this encounter that she disposed of the brown crepe and appeared at the office in tailored black wool.

By some odd chance Bud Moran, Mona’s brother, was not only at home but was up, belatedly and breakfasting. Sleek of hair, shiny-eyed and morose, Bud sat at the other end of the table, busily engaged in consuming a bowl of cereal and milk.

Mona thought absently that she had read somewhere that men ate far more sensibly than women, as a rule. Well, it was the only sensible thing Bud did. His activities worried Mona. Bud was furtive mysterious. Never a day passed that Mona quite escaped that nameless worry over her brother. She saw vague disgrace in the offering.

Harvest Festival Ends at New London

Plan to Observe 50th Anniversary Of Trinity Church

Bear Creek Congregation Makes Plans for Celebration Sunday

Special to Post-Crescent
Bear Creek—The Trinity Lutheran church at Nicholson, town of Bear Creek, will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of church dedication next Sunday, Nov. 6.

The German service at 10 a. m. will be in charge of the Rev. D. Jaeger of Big Falls, who was pastor of the congregation from 1891 to 1923. The English afternoon service will be in charge of the Rev. Paul Jank whose father was pastor of the congregation from 1884 to 1891.

The ladies will serve meals and if the weather permits there will be band music during the noon hour.

The first Lutheran services in this community were held in the home of Gottlieb Schroeder, grandfather of Erwin Schroeder and residing on the place now held by the latter. When Mr. Schroeder died, his wife would have charge of the service and would read a sermon. Then a little log church was built where the congregation's cemetery is at present. Lutheran settlers were rapidly coming in and soon this church was too small. In December, 1881, the resolution was passed to build a new church.

A parcel of land 12 by 13 rods was obtained from Charles Schoepke, father of Theodore Schoepke. The main contract was let to a Mr. Wood of New London but to reduce cost much of the work was done and the material was furnished by the members. August Schoepke, Gottlieb Raitzel and C. Kleins building committee and the Rev. J. Walker of New London was pastor of the congregation at that time.

Improve Surface of Ball Park With Sand

New London—Trucksloads of sand are being hauled this week to the ball park. Because of relieving operations earlier in the season, it was impossible to play on the field after rainy weather. It is believed that this sand surface will provide an all weather athletic field. When the sanding is completed the entire field will be seeded.

Members of the city commission state that even if the field is flooded for skating, this would not harm the seeding. The work has been done by the city street commission under the direction of Albert Gesse. It is expected that it will be completed and thoroughly packed down before any games which may remain on the football schedule are played here.

"DOPE" CARRIED IN GARTERS

Girl drug smugglers of Cairo, Egypt, are wearing "dope carrying" garters, according to the annual report of the Egyptian Government's Narcotics Intelligence Bureau which has just been made public. The garters are large double bands of elastic, able to support several large packages of heroin. The procedure is for the girls to go on board a ship when it arrives, ostensibly to visit the vessel, and there to secure the drugs from one of the sailors. As only men are liable to search at the ship's gangway the risk taken by the girls is slight. Other ingenious places in which drugs have been hidden by smugglers during the past year, says the report, include kitchen plate racks with secret compartments, walking sticks, wooden slippers, the saddle of a donkey, the crank case of a motor car, a box made of hollowed boards and a felt hat.

Hold Series of G. O. P. Rallies In Calumet-co

Howard Greene, Waukesha-co and Chester Seftenberg, Oshkosh, Speak

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Forest Junction, Wis.—A series of county Republican rallies, which will be concluded in the Brillion auditorium next Monday evening, Howard Greene, Waukesha-co dairy farmer, and Louis J. Fellenz, congressional candidate in the Sixth Wisconsin district, addressed an audience in the town hall here Friday afternoon. It was the second Republican gathering to be held here this week. On Tuesday evening, a larger audience of nearly 200 persons heard Chester Seftenberg, Oshkosh, youngest member of the 1927 legislature, discuss national and state issues.

Mr. Greene, Friday afternoon, spoke from an agricultural viewpoint rather than political. He spoke on twelve provisions of the Kohler platform painted on small wooden planks which, in the course of the speech, he built into a platform with corners labelled sincerity, common sense, honesty, and ability, and mounted it in conclusion. Touching on national issues, he criticized the Democratic views on the tariff, the St. Lawrence waterway, and their governmental extravagance in spending money on agriculture. Mr. Fellenz followed in a brief denunciation of governmental activities which might result in increased taxes at this time.

County candidates were presented by Anthony Madler, candidate for district attorney. For member of assembly from Calumet-co, Edward Bonk, canning company manager of Chilton, is opposing Jerome Fox, Democratic incumbent.

Chester Seftenberg is scheduled to address the concluding rally at Brillion Monday evening. A little German bank of six places, directed by E. Pieper, chairman of the county Republican organization, is playing at the rallies.

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York—(AP)—The stock market wobbled quietly in today's short session, reflecting life save week-end tightening up of both long and short accounts.

During the first hour, the list managed to recover yesterday's loss, but by a point or two here and there, but such pivotal shares as U. S. Steel and American Telephone failed to follow and the list slid back in the last hour.

The close found the market about steady, with a mixture of narrow gains and losses, mostly fractional. The turnover for the two hours of trading was about 400,000 shares.

The report of the movement of revenue freight on class 1 roads in the week ended Oct. 29 showed a reduction of 24.53 cents from the previous week, tending to confirm the belief that the seasonal peak in the freight movement had been reached in the week ended Oct. 15. This reduction, however, had been rather clearly foreshadowed by reports of individual roads earlier in the week, and was scarcely an important factor in the market.

U. S. Steel and American Telephone, after getting up only minor fractions in the early rise, slid back to show losses of 1 and 3/4 respectively, then recovered to finish about unchanged. The tobacco was a firm group, with American Tobacco B closing nearly 2 points higher, and Liggett and Myers B and Reynolds B showing fractional net gains. Standard of N. J. was a firm spot in the oils, closing about a point higher. In the rails, New York Central and Union Pacific finished about a point higher. Santa Fe lost most of a rise of 1/4. Norfolk and Western closed 5/8 point higher in a single transaction.

The alcohol stocks were again firm. U. S. Industrial rose a couple of points, and American Commercial and National Distillers, while finishing somewhat under the best, were up around a point. Owens Illinois Glass, however, reacted 1/4 points, and Crown Cork was quiet.

Mum Show Now Is at Memorial Drive Florist

Declared to be Best Exhibit in 10 Years History of Greenhouses

Crysanthemums are like nothing else in the world. From the pom-pom variety that can be made to grow in the garden to the enormous and widely different varieties that grow only under the care of an experienced man in the greenhouse there is a remarkable number of unusual blooms, each with an individuality of its own, each with coloring that is surprising and petals that are different. Hence a crysanthemum show is always an attractive novelty.

The Memorial Drive Floral Co., the establishment operated by Dick Aykens on the Appleton Menasha road, is holding its annual "mum" show now. In the ten years this concern has been in operation, two of them in the present location, it probably has never had an exhibit to compare with the present one. Flower lovers will find a cordial welcome when they go to these greenhouses at any time, and are especially urged to see the mums while they are in full glory.

Oddly enough, this place has special luck with two widely varying flowers, sweet peas and calla lilies. While it has perhaps above the average these it raises—10,000 geraniums have been started for spring—its sweet peas have always been a great success. Unless something untoward interferes these will be shown through all the winter, and of course when Easter rolls around there will be thousands of Easter lilies.

Recent activities at the plant include the building of a new greenhouse 25x100 feet, and the addition of a number of smaller buildings. These were forced upon the management by the patronage of the people of the community.

In the making of set pieces the greenhouse has met with more than the usual success. A piece recently made was the direct cause of orders for three more of the same kind. There is quite an art in making these—one that has to take into consideration the color combination, the likely life of the flowers, and the appropriateness for the occasion. The greenhouses seem to have unusual taste or skill or whatever is required in these pieces.

Flowers are delivered anywhere in the community. The telephone number is 5690, and if you cannot visit the place and regale yourself with the unusual flowers, especially the mums right now, your orders over the phone will receive close attention.

Beifast, Ireland, reports that its linen industry has brighter prospects than for some time.

ALL-AMERICAN HAIR-CUT

Fifteen-hundred-coiffures-in-one is this "Miss America" style of hairdressing. It is a composite, made by Joseph Capitaine, photographer, of the one and a half thousand coiffures arranged by leading hairdressers for the American Beauty and Style Show. It is a coiffure suited to red heads, blondes, brunettes and white-haired women. And a coiffure easy on almost any type of features. Note the soft wave over the forehead, the bun swirl over the ears, and the little curled ringlets at the nape of the neck.

Takes Ten Years To Learn Trade

Nearly Three Times That In Business Evidences Sells' Value

They say around upholstering shops that it takes a ten years experience to make a good upholsterer. Judging from that Paul L. Sells, upholsterer at 214 N. Morrison-st., should be a real master of his craft for he has been in business for 27 years.

People around here who have depended upon him for these years say that in automobile trimming, general upholstery and furniture-refinishing he is really expert.

Being expert, he can take an old living room suite that is years have scuffed about pretty recklessly, alter its shape to correspond with the more modern styles, and upholster it beautifully, so that the neighbors would think it was a new set.

And, too, when the top of the auto begins to show rents and tears and there is a noticeable dinginess about the upholstery, Sells is able to finish it up as well as the makers did originally.

When a man or a woman has really good furniture in the home, it is foolish to discard it. One may have its appearance entirely altered, have it covered with the one of a thousand fabrics that make it look the best, and go on using it for another period of years, just as well satisfied as if it were new, which it is to all appearances.

Good furniture is packed in this establishment so that it will be safe in shipping, mattresses are cleaned and recovered, and any job, large or small, will get really expert attention.

Mr. Sells' customers come from all parts of the state, quite a quantity of it coming from Milwaukee, for he has achieved fame as a workman of superior excellence.

Candy Shoppe Soon Popular

Harvey Koletzke Sells Fine Home-Made Product In New Store

Opened Oct. 1 at 338 W. College-ave., Harvey's Candy Shoppe has already made a name for itself in the quality of its candies, all made in the shop by the owner, Harvey Koletzke, who was for seven years with Harry Oaks. Mr. Koletzke has equipped the shop with all needful for the making of good candies, and he himself makes them. In their making he uses the best obtainable ingredients. There is not a substitute or a compound in the place. Even condensed milk is not good enough for the candy he makes.

The shop has a specialty of delicious chocolates, covered with the finest quality of Hershey chocolate. These have been the subject of a great amount of comment in Appleton, for they are something out of the ordinary, and Appleton people like them.

Mr. Koletzke will make special candies to order for any occasion, and in any style desired. He has already had a number of orders for these.

For the holiday season he expects to have an unusual line of gift boxes, which will be filled with wholesome, pure candy of his own make—an assurance that many people will enjoy the holidays even more.

Another feature is fresh nuts, roasted and salted in the shop, which are carried in bulk.

BATTLED ANGRY EAGLE
Calgary, Alta. — Andy Baxter, prominent Calgary sportsman, had a run in with an eagle recently. The eagle, one of four flying overhead, was brought down by Baxter's shot. On reaching the ground the eagle recovered and attacked Baxter sinking its talons into his arm through about five thicknesses of cloth. The talons had to be removed from Baxter's arm with a pair of pincers.

Miniature squirrels made of real fur, with bushy tails, are worn as hat ornaments in Europe.

Mutuals' Record Is Significant of Sound Condition

Schroeder Presents Facts Of Interest to Buyers Of Insurance

Interesting facts have been presented to the people of this community concerning the reliability and standing of mutual insurance companies by Charles W. Schroeder, at 1202 W. Appleton, whose insurance agency represents this type of company exclusively.

Among them is the significant one that between 1922 and 1927 393 different companies of various kinds retired from business in the United States for one reason or other. Of these there were but 91 mutual companies. Ninety-six per cent of the mutuals continued unaffected through this period. It is pointed out that no mutual insurance company that used the cash plan and acquired $200,000 in cash assets and $100,000 in surplus has ever failed or made an assessment on its policy holders.

Mr. Schroeder represents the Town Mutual Fire, the Dubuque Mutual Fire, the Home Mutual for cyclone, tornado and hail insurance and the Milwaukee Automobile Insurance Co., a limited mutual for automobile insurance. While he has been in business at the present location but two years, Mr. Schroeder has had 19 years experience in underwriting insurance, and he enjoys the confidence of his companies to such an extent that he does all the adjustments on ordinary losses himself.

It is a part of his fixed policy not to urge larger coverage than can be collected, so that his customers need not pay excessive premiums. It is his belief that he can insure his patrons as adequately as any one, and by using mutual companies may be able to effect quite a saving in the amount of the premiums paid.

Shows Kitchen to All Its Patrons

Popularity of the Notaras Bros. restaurant at 345 W. College-ave., has been much enhanced by the recent changes in the arrangement of the place. This has enabled a quicker service, with the preparation of all foods in plain sight—something many a person has wished for in restaurant procedure, and an evidence that the proprietors are proud of the cleanliness of the food handling.

With the changes that were made a new scale of prices went into effect—one that has been made possible by the economy of the complete equipment of the kitchen. Actually good dinners and suppers may be had as low as 25 cents, and the bowl of chili con carne that has made a reputation for this place costs but 10 cents now.

Table service in booths and quick counter service are given, while the popular soda fountain serves all kinds of sodas and sundaes at ten cents.

SLICK WORK
Los Angeles—Some nimble fingered pickpocket did a very slick piece of work on Herman H. Breit, Tujuna Chamber of Commerce president, here recently.

Breit was standing within three feet of Mayor John Dwyer and he was completely surrounded by public officials. The pickpocket lifted Breit's two wallets which together contained $50.00.
